FORTY-TWO YEARS OLD — NILES, ALAMEDA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 29, 1930 — NUMBER 23

MEMORIAL TO BE DEDICATED BY VETERANS

Washington Post to Have Charge of the Public Ceremonies

With the completion of Washington Township Veterans' Memorial Building opposite the Niles Grammar School, and the formal dedicatory ceremonies, which are to be held there May 30th, the local post of the American Legion will be housed in what is the community's visual token of its appreciation for their services and sacrifices during the World War.

The building itself is a fitting example of California architecture. It is of Spanish design, with large windows and wide double doors. The interior is equipped with two dressing rooms, an auditorium that has a seating capacity of 500, with an up-to-date stage, two dressing rooms, lobby, a separate club room for men and for women, and a large roomy kitchen. The building will be illuminated at night by means of a central lighting arrangement.

The roof, which is made of tile, carrying out the old mission style of architecture, was furnished by the Decoto factory. Large-size fireplaces, made of cast stone, are located in the building.

Henry Meyers, county architect, and George R. Klinkhardt, assisting him, prepared the plans for the Memorial Building. The contractor was J. R. Brannagh of Oakland Washington Township's Memorial building was financed by means of an appropriation of nearly $60,000, made by the Alameda County Board of Supervisors. Under the provisions of a recently-enacted state law the supervisors are empowered to levy a tax not exceeding 4 cents on each one hundred dollars of assessed valuation for that purpose. With such a tax levy it was impossible to raise sufficient funds to build memorial buildings for all of the Legion posts in Alameda county in one year.

It was natural, therefore, that the larger cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda should be the first to have the money appropriated. Due largely to the activity and persistence of Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond, who has always taken a great interest in the welfare of the veterans of Washington Township, money for the building to be dedicated on Memorial Day was obtained before appropriations were made for Livermore, Albany, Hayward, San Leandro, Emeryville or for Pleasanton.

Another public spirited resident of Washington Township to whom the members of the local Legion Post are especially indebted is Joseph C. Shinn. Mr. Shinn generously donated the land upon which the building is standing.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY MAY BE ATTAINED LOCALLY

A hope has been expressed by several legion members of the local post that before long a women's auxiliary may be added to Post No. 195. In other communities the auxiliaries do wonderful work and expend effort to further plans of the legion in aiding those who are needy.

Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond's Efforts Secured County Aid

Of the outstanding features of the struggle of Washington Township Post No. 195, American Legion to secure its new memorial building is the untiring effort of Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond. It is due largely to his efforts with the Board of Supervisors that the money was appropriated for this purpose.

RALPH V. RICHMOND
Who represents the First Supervisorial District on the Alameda County Board of Supervisors.

Richmond's interest in the welfare of the country's veterans dates back to the early days of the World War. Barred by age from taking an active part in the hostilities, he served on various committees through all of the war drives, and his efforts and influence during the trying days of the great conflict are recalled by those who remained at home.

With the ending of the war and demobilization of troops, Supervisor Richmond took special interest in the welfare of the veterans and his record on the Board of Supervisors shows that whenever the opportunity presented itself he was active in the support of such legislation as would benefit the ex-service men.

Small wonder, then, that his work to secure a fitting Memorial for those who served their country should be one of the outstanding features of the effort to secure the present building.

AMERICAN LEGION DANCE

A dance is to be given June 7, Saturday night, by the Building Commission of the new Veterans' Memorial building, erected by Washington Township Post No. 195, American Legion. A large attendance is expected as this will be among the first of the social affairs after the dedication of the building.

BEAUTIFUL NEW EDIFICE ERECTED ON LAND DONATED BY NILES MAN

The Washington Township Veterans' Memorial building is the fourth memorial building to be erected by the taxpayers of Alameda county. The first was built in Oakland, the second in Berkeley and the third at Alameda. The fourth, for the members of Washington Township's Post, is now complete. It is located at Niles.

At a meeting of Washington Township Post held in Niles on December 14, 1926, F. V. Jones of the Citizens' Advisory Board, offered the post an option on a site for its building. The proffered lot is 100x150 feet. Mr. Jones announced that the offer was made on behalf of Joseph C. Shinn, one of the pioneer residents of the township, and a man who had always been a worker for the civic betterment of the communities.

The site offered was on Second street, Niles, opposite the Niles Grammar School, and with the completion of the new building, the section is regarded as a nucleus for Niles coming civic center.

In making his offer, Mr. Shinn merely stipulated that a building costing not less than $30,000 must be erected on the site for the veterans' organization, and that the work of construction be started within one year from the acceptance of the offer. Mr. Shinn, later extended the date of the option when it became apparent that legal formalities would cause a delay longer than a year.

Mr. Shinn's offer was accepted by the Post, and, as a token of their appreciation, the members of the organization extended to the donor of the land the privilege of attending all the meetings of the Post and of its committees and of participating in their discussions.

Through Post 195 county council delegates, J. R. Edwards, R. Bendel and E. D. Bristow, and alternate delegates E. C. Matheson and M. C. Dassel, approval of Washington Township Post's project was secured from the County Council and active steps were taken to bring the matter before the Board of Supervisors. At a meeting of the supervisors held in Oakland on October 20, 1927, at which meeting Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond, F. V. Jones, E. D. Bristow, Frank X. Veit and R. K. Wilson were present representing Washington Township Post 195, Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond introduced a resolution providing for the acceptance of Mr. Shinn's offer, and pledging the appropriation of not less than $30,000 for the building.

Necessary funds, however, were not available at that time, but Henry Meyers, county architect, was instructed to confer with the building committee of the local post relative to the preparation of plans and specifications for a memorial building. Supervisor Richmond and Mr. Shinn took an active part in all of these conferences.

On July 9, 1928, at a meeting held in Oakland with the Board of Supervisors, the county archi-

HISTORY OF LOCAL POST SHOWS A FINE GROWTH

Washington Township Post No. 195, of the American Legion, which is to occupy the new Memorial Building at Niles following its dedication on May 30th, is composed of veterans and ex-service men of the great World War. Those eligible for membership must have been regularly enlisted, drafted, inducted or commissioned; and accepted for and assigned to active military duty in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States some time between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918, and honorably discharged from the military service of the country.

Washington Township Post has jurisdiction over all the members presiding in any of the eight towns in the Township—Niles, Centerville, Newark, Irvington, Alvarado, Decoto, Mission San Jose and Warm Springs. The local unit is regularly affiliated with the State Department of California and through it with the National Department of America. It is a member of the Alameda County Council.

On account of the scattered membership and consequent difficulties encountered in organization. Washington Township Post existed as a temporary unit, functioning under a temporary charter from Aug. 9, 1921, until May 8, 1923. On that date the post constitution and by-laws were adopted and its permanent charter was made operative. The local post then took its place among other posts of California.

The following preamble to the Constitution of the American Legion shows the nature and aims of the organization:

"For God and Country we associate ourselves together for the following purposes:

"To uphold and defend the Cconstitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a one hundred per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the Community, State and Nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of Justice, Freedom and Democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

The following is the membership roster and register of the post to date of May 1, 1930, beginning with August 9, 1921, giving the names of all members (active or inactive) accepted by the Post, and giving the dates when accepted.

The first 49 members were accepted during the temporary charter and post formation period—August 9, 1921 to May 8, 1923—and are therefore classified as charter members of the post;

Charles E. Christiansen—Aug. 9, 1921.

Walter L. Martenstein—August 9, 1921.

Larry Nichols—August 9, 1921

H. Nichols—August 9, 1921.

Sophus Johnson—August 9, 1921.

Barney V. Bragg—Aug. 9, 1921

J. Hendricks—Aug.9, 1921.

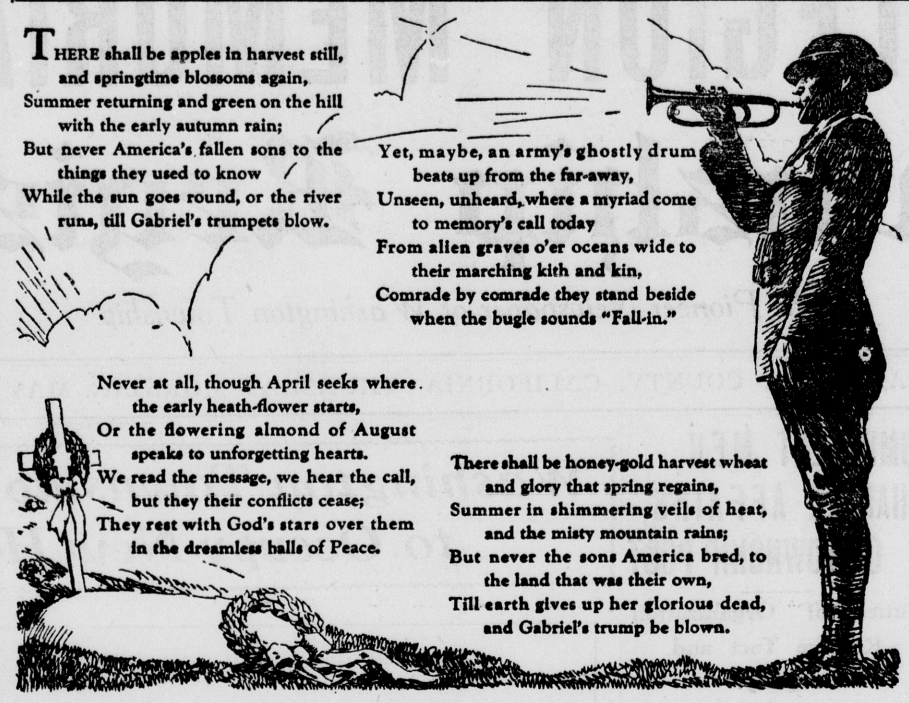
Our Hero Dead, Hail and Farewell!



THERE shall be apples in harvest still,
and springtime blossoms again,
Summer returning and green on the hill
with the early autumn rain;
But never America's fallen sons to the things they used to know
While the sun goes round, or the river runs, till Gabriel's trumpets blow.

Never at all, though April seeks where the early heath-flower starts,
Or the flowering almond of August speaks to unforgetting hearts.
We read the message, we hear the call,
but they their conflicts cease;
They rest with God's stars over them in the dreamless halls of Peace.

Yet, maybe, an army's ghostly drum
beats up from the far-away,
Unseen, unheard, where a myriad come to memory's call today
From alien graves o'er oceans wide to their marching kith and kin,
Comrade by comrade they stand beside when the bugle sounds "Fall-in."

There shall be honey-gold harvest wheat and glory that spring regains,
Summer in shimmering veils of heat,
and the misty mountain rains;
But never the sons America bred, to the land that was their own,
Till earth gives up her glorious dead,
and Gabriel's trump be blown.

THE HERO DEAD

This tiny bugler sounds taps over the graves of men who sacrificed their lives for the sake of democracy and the preservation of their country.

"Air Cathedral" Flyers' Tribute

In memory of its brothers of the air who have "gone West," and in tribute to those who still carry on, the American Legion, Department of New Jersey, is to build a chapel which will be also a sanctuary for all men, and an eternal reminder of the spiritual verities.

"It is tremendously significant," says the announcement, "that the Legion, when seeking best to express its devotion and idealism, should decide to construct a memorial that has a primary religious and moral value. It is to be a house of prayer for all people." The "Cathedral of the Air," as it is described, is also, we read in the New York Christian Advocate (Methodist), a practical demonstration of interchurch co-operation and fellowship, as its charter provides that it shall be non-denominational. All denominations are co-operating in the project and all may use it. The interior arrangements and chancel furnishings have been so designed as to be adaptable for the worship of all religious groups, giving offense to none, and permitting each to use the appointments to which it is accustomed. A navy chaplain will act as dean.

Memorial to Airmen.

The chapel is to be located at the United States Naval Air station at Lakehurst; it will stand not far from the hangar of the U. S. S. Los Angeles, the navy's great experimental dirigible, which by the terms of the Treaty of Versailles may never be used for any purpose of war. The idea of the memorial originated in the minds of three prominent members of the American Legion in New Jersey, and the Advocate informs us further:

"Its chief sponsor has been the Hon. Herbert H. Blizzard of Audubon, commander of the New Jersey department of American Legion during 1929. Mr. Blizzard is now president of the board of trustees, upon whom the American Legion has placed the responsibility for the successful completion of the project. Rev. Gill Robb Wilson of Trenton, formerly national chaplain, has had a large part in the organization of the plan. As an aviator he received the Croix de Guerre with Palms from the French government. He is at present the influential pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church in Trenton. The third of the group who developed the plans is Commander William W. Edel (Chaplain corps), United States navy, chaplain of the United States air station at Lakehurst.

"The American Legion espoused the plan early in 1929. The enabling act permitting the United States government to accept such

Their Memory Fragrant

"The memory of the just is blessed."—Prov. 10:7.

Memorial day comes as a reminder of the nobility of service, especially when that service means sacrifice. So, in the first instance, as originally intended, we honor our soldier dead—those who served their country, and, in many instances, fought, suffered and died on the field of battle. The small American flag and the brightly blooming flowers signify they are not forgotten. So it is our privilege and duty to thus keep Memorial day.

Three Nations Honored

Aiceo Dossena's model for a monument to the Cremona World war dead has been approved and will be erected in the biggest square of the city. Of modern design, the memorial will be dedicated not only to the Italian dead but also to the Austrians and Hungarians who succumbed in Cremona as war prisoners. Thus the combatants of three nations are honored by the same monument. Dossena's conception embodies a tomb behind a foreground of three mothers symbolic of the respective countries and united in the same grief.

Spirit of the Day

It was no accident that the United States, which has fought fewer wars than most great countries, was the first to institute a Memorial day for its war dead. Nor was it an accident that it was instituted just after a war which represented a moral uprising against slavery and a fervent determination to keep the nation united. With high objects went a high emotion. A democracy has a special feeling for those of its sons who have died in battle. A people which has given hundreds of thousands of young men for such causes as were at stake in the Civil war instinctively desire some means of honoring the men and the causes together.—New York World.

Doling's Variety Store

F. J. DOLING has one of the Finest Variety Stores in Alameda County, where Patrons are Furnished with Best Grades of Merchandise on the Market.

In making this review we wish to direct your special attention to this well-known firm, which has furnished its patrons with none other than the very best grade of goods on the market today. The public has come to understand that at this establishment they cannot only secure the latest in style, but the highest quality, for it handles representative stock, goods of reputation and, therefore, its patrons know that they can get the same quality right here that could be secured anywhere else, and at the same price.

The makers of advertised, trade-marked goods must toe the quality line. They alone are responsible for the fit and wearing qualities of their products. They could not recede from the standard they themselves have set, because if they did their business would recede as well.

Doling's Variety Store, 1011 "B" street, Hayward, sells only standard, advertised goods of known quality, as every patron of the store is assured of receiving value for his money and, therefore, it is not surprising that this large establishment is one of the features of the commercial efficiency of this section.

Throughout this popular store you will find the same quality and whether it is one of those many little accessories of dress that are so necessary to the toilet of today, or a selection from the more comprehensive stock of ready-to-wear, the customer invariable finds this establishment has provided a large assortment from which to choose. Another feature of this store is the courtesy and accommodation which mark the very satisfactory service and distinguishes it from the average store of this kind.

Mr. Doling is a progressive and latter-day business man and is a prominent citizen in this vicinity. In this edition we are pleased to compliment him and to suggest to our readers that this is the logical place to trade.

Proper Recognition of Meade's Great Services

Five years after the death of Gen. George Gordon Meade there was erected in the Botanical garden at Washington a memorial fountain designed by the eminent French sculptor, Bartholdi. Fifty years later the fountain was taken down to be stored until the new Botanical garden shall be transferred to the site south of the Capitol.

Where the Bartholdi fountain stood there has been erected a statue and memorial to General Meade, who commanded the Army of the Potomac at Gettysburg. The statue is the work of Charles Grafly, and was the first example of that sculptor's art to be erected in Washington. The cost of the memorial was borne by the state of Pennsylvania, for although George Meade was born in Spain the Keystone state has claimed him as her own.

Fifty-eight years after he passed from earth, General Meade was honored by the state he helped to save. It is fitting that the memorial should be within a few hundred feet of the memorial to General Grant, and almost under the dome of the Capitol.

Trail of War in Life of the United States

The Grand Army of the Republic's national encampments during the last few years have presented a strikingly human and humane picture of our American life, something to be studied carefully, unhurriedly, to be proud of and to be pictured on the sensitized plate of the brain for future reference.

For one with the proper sympathy the outer shell of our republic opened and fell back, so that he might look upon the disappearing generations, the middle ballast and the third and fourth generations that take over the guerdon from the first named and carry on.

First in order, in this case, with the seniority of youth, is the American Legion in the prime of manhood, anxious to serve and doffing its khaki broad-brimmed hat or service cap to the Blue of that other period. It has youth on its side, it is looking forward, it has something to live for. And it is All-American. It has a fellow feeling for the men who had to take sides.

In between come the veterans of the Spanish-American war, head erect, body seasoned, a center link in the chain of life.

Then must be placed the hereditary societies, sons and daughters of the G. A. R. veterans. They have something to be proud of, too; it helps to make them and theirs better citizens.

The ministering angels of the Civil war also come into the view. Not many of them now, but they make a bold showing. Theirs was not an easy berth in those seemingly far-off days. Hard, rough work, they had to do the best they could with what was given them. Medical science in the intervening period has done a great deal to soften the horrors of war, even though science in another field has done its best to add to the terrors of it by new inventions. So it must be for some time to come—the Army Nurses' association and the Red Cross at one extreme; the chemist and his poison gas at the other.

War's ledger has two leaves. On one is the debit of war; on the other is the credit. It is not for us to strike a balance, but the great ledger stands open for anyone to strike one for himself.

War's chain has continued throughout the life of the Republic. One generation follows another. Is this to be the end? Will the Boy Scouts now serving as aids to the soldiers of two generations back have to answer a call later on, or will there be a break in the martial chain for at least a single generation, if not for all time? If peace treaties can dent the rule of the war god, the rising generation will be off duty.

Famous "Grand Review"

What is known as the Grand Review was held in Washington, D. C., May 23 and 24, 1865. The whole number of officers and enlisted men in and about Washington at that time was 152,445, according to the most accurate returns. The number actually participating in the parade was doubtless somewhat less than that number, as many were probably left in charge of camps and guarding property and equipment.

Flowers for Heroes' Graves

One leading Washington florist supplies between 400 and 500 sprays and bouquets averaging about $10 apiece, for Arlington cemetery, Memorial day. The only elaborate set piece ordered annually from this florist is a huge star which is the tribute of the Gold Star Mothers of America.

Register printing the best.

Brandon's Memorial Studio

GRANITE MONUMENTS of Everlasting Beauty that Stand the Test of Time, Obtainable at Brandon's Memorial Studio, where Models, Excellent in Symmetry, are on Display.

The past proves a good teacher. The mistakes of yesterday find corrections in today. Time has taught us the lasting qualities of granite and marble. A worker in this art is Brandon's Memorial Studio, located on the Niles highway near Hayward.

The plant of Mr. Brandon, is very extensive and is equipped with the latest of machinery for the production of high class work. His name stands for high quality, reliability and progress in the monument line and as the advances of the period have marked improvements in the monument maker's art, the manager and proprietor has adopted these late improvements as soon as they were approved by the trade.

The large number of monuments placed in the cemeteries show that this work is held in appreciation by the public. Their unusual symmetry and beauty of design stands as an example of his expert designing and workmanship and are the admiration of all who see them.

M. S. Brandon will be pleased to show you designs in this line, whether you desire to purchase at the present time or not. It is a pleasure for us to point to this enterprise as one of the leaders of Alameda county and to say that he has always been eminently fair and honest as well as progressive and up to date, and that he has won for himself the enviable position he now holds; and to point out the advantages of transacting business with him.

Brandon Memorial Studio is now located near the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

His success has accrued from his policy of guaranteeing every bit of work and he first assures himself that the work has been of the best character.

His business is not confined to Hayward but extends throughout the county as he has shipped to all parts.

Hayward Machine Works

HAYWARD MACHINE WORKS Solves Many Mechanical Difficulties And Gives Valuable as Well as Dependable Service on All Agricultural And Industrial Equipment.

An owner of any kind of machinery is not satisfied to entrust it's care into the hands of men in whom he does not have confidence. To achieve success in the business of operating a machine shop, one must be thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business. The Autoists and Farmers of Washington township and Alameda county have come to know that the Hayward Machine Shop located at 824 Main St. Hayward, is a firm you can visit with confidence of receiving high grade work at most reasonable cost.

This firm specializes in industrial machinery manufacturing, such as special cannery machinery and other industrial plants where special machinery is required. Much light manufacturing, such as machine models which require lathe work is also feeatured by this firm.

Farmers of Southern Alameda county have found the Hayward Machine Shop always most dependable when it comes to machine work for the operating of farm machinery.

H. Freeberg and C. Keller, the proprietors, realized when they started in this business some time ago, that it was necessary to equip their shop with the latest lathes and other tools for turning out high class work.

This shop is of accomodation to autoists, farmers and others who demand quality work, whether it be advice, or the making of a special piece of machinery to be turned out on the lathe.

In a word this is a Hayward Firm of the highest character, and what you would expect to find of such a progressive firm you will find at the Hayward Machine Works.

Duarte Sheet Metal Works

H. E. DUARTE SHEET Metal Works does Prompt Work Guaranteed to be Satisfactory to Patrons who Demand Class Service. Contracting and Jobbing by Skillful Assistants.

This establishment is deserving of more than a passing notice in this business review of our onward progress as it is recognized in this County as one of the most expert sheet metal firms.

In addition to this they conduct a modern furnace department, tanks, carry a complete line of pumps for every purpose, such as the Sterling Turbines and the Meyers lines, too well known to furthur devote space here and are prepared to execute all classes of this work and all other features of a sheet metal establishment.

During the time The H. E. Duarte sheet metal works has been in business they have executed hundreds of jobs and these stand as examples of their expert workmanship. And, while only the highest class of sheet metal and other work is executed by them, prices are very reasonable. In their various departments they have a large stock on hand at all times, and this is especially true of their sheet metal. This class of work is a specialty with them and it is executed promptly and satisfactorily.

A special feature of this concern is contracting and jobbing sheet metal work.

Their work embraces all features of furnaces, ventilating and sheet metal contracting. Whether the job be large or small makes no difference to them in the manner in which it is accomplished. The best of materials, best workmanship and fair prices regulate their activity, and it is without fear of contradiction that we say one cannot do better than to consult them in regard to all matters of sheet metal and allied features.

We are pleased in this business review to refer all our readers to the H. E. Duarte sheet metal works and to compliment Mr. Duarte, the manager of this firm, upon the leading position his business occupies in the business world of this section, which is a distinct tribute to his business acumen.

P. W. Moody . .

P. W. MOODY CONVERTS Faded Interiors Into Spots Of Beauty with Paint and Paper of Harmonizing Colors, Delightful for Cool Seclusion on Warm Days of Summer.

As summer approaches it becomes imperative that the home be given attention. The rains and winds of the winter have dried out and decayed the lumber, leaving it porous so that it will absorb the summer heat and start it to rot and disintegrate. Only paint will prevent this condition that means serious damage unless attended to.

As summer approaches, with its added social obligations, the home becomes a place where more hours are spent and the attractions of freshly painted and papered interiors become a matter of constant enjoyment—or contra, the lack of such improvements grates more constantly on the nerves.

Poor paint, or paint not suitable to your lumber, is a waste. The cost or work of applying a poor paint is as great or greater than to apply that which is adapted to your needs. P. W. Moody, whose store is at 1033 "B" st., Hayward, are experts and will gladly tell you the proper paint for your particular purpose and will supply you at a price as low, and probably lower, than you would pay for an inferior article.

In wall paper P. W. Moody has a selection that is seldom equalled and never surpassed in this part of the State. They can supply you with the cheapest quality for kitchen or seldom used rooms, or the very best up to the hand made and imported papers. In all cases prices are the lowest possible for the paper desired. They are experts on designs and combinations and some of the prettiest finished homes in this district have been finished under their direction and advice.

Ability plus a fair and honest service has built for them a big business and is bringing an ever increasing number of patrons. We advise that you drop into their store when in Hayward and inspect their lines. Mr. Moody will be glad to give you estimates on your painting and wall paper problem.

Vanishing Figures of '61

The thinning ranks of those who fought in the Civil war are revealed in somewhat dramatic and pathetic fashion by the annual reunions of veterans of the conflict between the states. Every year the numbers of those who are able to attend these affairs are seen to be smaller, the hands a little less steady, movements more uncertain and the line of march—aided by the motor car—somewhat shorter. The actual rate at which time is making its conquest of these heroes, however, is shown in reports of the commissioner of pensions with reference to Union survivors.

It is evident that under the conditions normally to be expected, but a few more years will elapse until the survivors will represent a mere fraction of the total now alive. Thus are fading the reminders of a great tragic, if heroic, event in the nation's history. Other days, other events press upon the attention of the country. But they should leave a large place in its thought for all of those, living and dead, who had an active part in the period of trial, disaster and triumph extending from 1861 to 1865.

G. W. Golds Laundry Service

G. W. GOLDS, Route Owner—Phone Col. 1020, SAN JOSE

G. W. GOLDS GIVES People of Washington Township Laundry Service Which Does Clean Work not Injurious to Clothes in Any Way, by use of Modern, Efficient Machinery.

SUB-AGENTS: Laumeister Confectionery, Centerville; and De Luxe Barber Shop, Niles.

G. W. Golds, representative for a well known laundry which offers service to the many residents of Washington Township does two important things—he represents a laundry that washes clean and does that washing without injury to the clothes in any way—that seems perfectly common-place. All laundries are supposed to do that—few of them do. Yet the increasing number of patrons which Mr. Golds gains each year in Washington Township for the laundry he represents may be taken as a basis of judgment, this laundry does its work thoroughly and efficiently.

At the plant of the laundry the most modern laundry machinery is used, the plant uses soft water in the washing of clothes, and only soft water touches your clothes, thus insuring maximum cleaniness and absolutely eliminating injury from foreign chemicals in hard water.

Modern machinery insures that your clothes will not be torn. The finest fabrics may be sent here for washing with perfect assurance that they will not be injured in any way. They take the same care with your garments as they would with their own and the employees of the plant are absolutely dependable.

In representing this laundry in Washington Township, Mr. Golds realized that in addition to washing clothes clean without injury a successful laundry business must serve the public promptly, efficiently and courteously. This has always been a feature of Mr. Golds service. Patrons need not get their laundry ready and then have to wait several days before Mr. Golds calls for the bundles. Patrons know, too, that the work will be back when promised. Such promptness as this, combined with the excellence of work done readily explains the service that G. W. Golds offers to residents of Washington Township.

The Unknown

There is to be erected an elaborate addition to the grave of the Unknown Soldier.

NO chiseled marble can enhance
The Unknown Soldier's fame;
An eager nation fain would write
On Stars and Stripes his name.
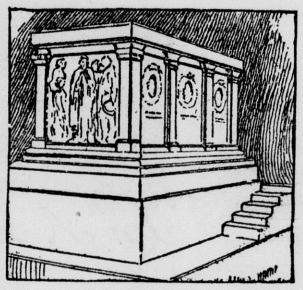
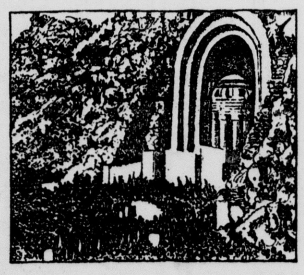
His soul its vigil keeps
Until life's ringing reveille
Through death's long bivouac sweeps.



O stricken heart that long has claimed
As thine the great Unknown,
With undimmed vision pierce the veil
That hides thee from thine own,
Then pray for those, the vast unknown
Whose dirge the low wind sings,
For those beside whose wooden cross
Peace folds her blood-stained wings.

ENDURING MEMORIAL



Hewn out of the solid rock, this odd memorial at Nice, France, honors local men who fell in the World war. The sketch was made at its dedication by the late Marshal Foch.

CANADIAN MEMORIAL AT VIMY RIDGE

The quarries that were worked by the Emperor Diocletian are now supplying huge blocks of stone required for the Canadian war memorial at Vimy Ridge. Since 305 A. D. they have remained idle. The story of their new activity is told by W. S. Allward, Toronto sculptor, who won the award for the erection of the monument on the battlefield where the Canadians made their greatest effort during the World war.

Mr. Allward was in need of large, flawless blocks for the heroic figures of the memorial. He sought them in various parts of Europe. His wanderings brought him to the little town of Spalato on the eastern shores of the Adriatic, where, near the seashore, are the ruins of the palace built by Diocletian. The kind of stone he wanted was in its walls.

Mr. Allward was struck by the beauty and durability of the stone. It is a pink buff, which, in the passing of years has ripened to a rich amber. He found on the hillside above the ruins the old quarries in which it had been cut. Since the last blocks had been quarried there in 305 they had not been worked.

They contained an abundant supply for his needs, and today native workers are chiseling out massive blocks and sliding them down the mountainside.

The Vimy memorial is 200 feet square. Two of the pylons will reach 140 feet above the ground level. Joints between the great blocks of stone are only one-sixteenth of an inch wide. Studios will be erected on the monument itself and the figures will be cut there.

The artist's comception of the memorial is that of a strongly walled defense. Through the walls appear the mouths of cannon. At the base of the walls are the defenders. One group depicts the breaking of the sword, the other the sympathy of the Canadians for the helpless. Standing in front of the main platform is Canada in the form of a hooded woman, her head bowed in sorrow over the graves. Below is suggested a tomb on which lie a helmet and laurels.

Behind the great tapering shafts of the pylons rise skyward. In the arch which they form is the Spirit of Sacrifice throwing the torch to a comrade. Issuing from the inner sides of the pillars are symbolic figures, their arms reaching upward. Around are shields of Britain, Canada and France.

Outside is the cross. The whole forms a memorial of majestic beauty, worthy of that fine material found by the sculptor.

Memorial Never Day to Bring Up Animosities

Memorial day might conceivably be in some countries an occasion for appealing to martial boastfulness or ancient animosities. Americans have reason to take pride in the fact that we have never been tempted to use it in that way. The names of our battles—Antietam, Vicksburg, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, Chateau-Thierry, the Argonne—carry a thrill to all Americans, but we think of the battles as against a larger background. For this we are indebted partly to national tradition, but more largely to our leaders in time of crisis. In the Civil war there was plenty of popular hatred and anger. Yet Lincoln never once yielded to them, never deviated an inch from his course of loftiness and magnanimity, and never ceased appealing to the country to pursue its objects with malice toward none and charity for all. When Wilson went before congress to ask a declaration of war it was with the earnest declaration that "we are the sincere friends of the German people;" from beginning to end of the conflict he insisted that his chief concern was to define its aims in such a way as to awaken the idealism of the whole world and make possible a saner and better world order.

After the Civil war there was a period of reaction and fatigue, when the baser side of the national character asserted itself. After the World war there was a less marked but decided slump from the best wartime ideals. But we can safely say today that that also is past. Memorial day now and hereafter will be a day for remembering even more than the war dead the exalted aims for which they died.—New Yorld World.

For A Battlefield

UNLESS your feet may tread as young winds tread
The aisles of sunrise, do not venture here;
There is a quietude death owes the dead—
A silence past the silence of a tear.
Let Winter rainfall and the creep of moss
Write on each stone; they are the hands of fame
That brood above a passionate battlefield's loss
And give to glad gay youth less than a name.

Speak now no word. Let only Aprils stir
The grasses on forgotten battlefields
With helmets of bright gold and lavender—
The flash of splendor that a crocus yields.
Unless you tread as light as winds at dawn,
Oh, do not tarry here . . . pass on! pass on!

—Daniel Whitehead Hicky in the New York Times.

Ideal to Be Sought

We have still with us many of the veterans of 1865, but their numbers are diminishing year by year. There is a new order of veterans today. Many of that same order sleep in the fields of Flanders and the other battlefields of the World war; their favorite slogan was: "Carry on!" This should mean that ideals for which they laid down their lives to preserve shall not be lost sight of. One of the great ideals aimed at was world brotherhood.

Be a model to other business men: ADVERTISE.

Flag Rules

On Memorial day the flag should be displayed at half staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset.—Country Home.

FIRED FIRST SHOT

The American naval gun which fired the first shot at an enemy vessel during the World war is on exhibition at the Smithsonian museum at Washington. The gun was mounted on the after deck of the steamship Mongelia and was fired at a German sub 5:23 a. m., April 19, 1917, by American sailors.

Now it is a source of interest to sightseers in the National Capital, one of whom is photographed with the gun.

Impossible to Forget Their Great Sacrifice

Twelve years ago stalwart young Americans were giving their lives for their country in France. Thirty-one years ago they were rushing to the defense of a people oppressed by Spain. Thirty years before that it was brother against brother, in terrible civil war. Today there is peace. We would be ingrates not to pause to give thanks to God for peace, and to fallen heroes for their example of high courage and inspiring patriotism.

A new South joins with the North in tribute to the memory of those who fought in blue and gray. A grateful nation mourns for those sacrificed in '98, and for the thousands more who bled and died in France. And as we lay a wreath upon the grave of a father, a brother or a son, let us pray for guidance along the trail that shall lead to amity among nations.—Kansas City Times.

APPRECIATION

The veterans' march is never done,
And if the footsteps lag,
Honor the men of '61
Who still uphold the flag.
Not many now to watch and ward,
And those few are bereft
Of comrades of the old-time guard—
Only a remnant left.

As autumn leaves, no longer green
And shaken by the breeze
A moment, falling, drift between
The grasses and the trees,
So those who marched off in their prime
To fight the war they won
Are drifting on the winds of time . . .
The men of '61.

Prayers at All Graves in French Cemeteries

Americans have a solemn duty in striving "to find a way whereby nations may settle their differences other than by force," Gen. John J. Pershing said last year in a moving tribute to the war dead at Memorial day services at the Belleau Wood cemetery.

On Memorial day nearly every American in Paris attended one of the many services held at the various churches.

The graves of all American soldiers who died in the World war were decorated and a prayer said over them by their late comrades in arms or grateful compatriots.

Whether lying in thousands grouped in the magnificently kept cemeteries at Belleau Wood, Romagne, Fere-en-Tardenois, Thiaucourt, Bony and Suresnes, or sleeping where they fell along the slopes of war-torn hills, deep ravines or thick forests, all were remembered.

Ten major ceremonies marked the day.

Arrangements under the auspices of the American Memorial Day association, founded in 1920 for the decoration of American soldiers' graves abroad, care was taken that upon every "scattered grave" there rested a bouquet of Flanders poppies.

Dean Frederick W. Beekman of the American Church of the Holy Trinity, chairman of the association, and Col. T. Bentley Mott of the American embassy staff, honorary chairman of the American Graves Decoration committee, with the assistance of the American Legion, the American Graves Registration services and the initiative of private American citizens residing in France, had perfected arrangements and the day was celebrated with religious and military pomp.

Commander Stephen S. Szlapka of the Paris Post No. 1 of the Legion was in charge of the ceremonies at Suresnes, at which Norman Armour, the American charge d'affaires, presided. A large number of French and American dignitaries were present.

General Pershing, Julian M. Thomas and some American legionnaires journeyed to Belleau Wood and decorated the graves of American soldiers who fell during the Aisne-Marne drive.

Loose Flowers Chosen for Graves of Heroes

Clusters of loose blossoms strewn over the graves, and artistic sprays and bouquets supplant the old set pieces of harps and flags of former years at Arlington National cemetery on Memorial day.

Florists say the public taste in floral tributes is changing. Now beautiful Arlington is blanketed on Memorial day with snowy peonies and glowing roses and gladioli. The flowers rest softly, carelessly on the graves of those of high or low rank.

One leading Washington florist annually raises 40,000 peonies for use May 30. Most of them go to the great national cemetery on the Potomac. Nowhere in the country are so many men of renown at rest.

Private and official automobiles laden with floral tributes fill the road leading to the majestic city of the dead. Airplanes move above the beautiful tree-covered slopes.

The most imposing tributes are at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Yet even here sprays and loose bouquets of flowers are supplanting the set pieces which often were placed on the tomb a few years ago.

Nobody knows who leaves most of the Memorial day flowers at Arlington or why they are left on certain graves more than others. There is a well-worn path leading to the hilltop where Admiral Peary and Floyd Bennett rest. Their resting places always are masses of flowers on May 30.

All Are Remembered

At Arlington on Memorial day gay fragrant blossoms are heaped around the cold gray bases of imposing monuments to generals, and they also blanket the modest last resting places of the heroes of the Maine, where the little white headstones are as alike as the uniforms of the sailors who went down in Havana harbor so many years ago.

Liberty Through Sacrifice

It is easy to forget that much of the liberty and many of the privileges we enjoy today have come to us only after the sacrifice and struggle of brave souls in the years gone by. It is easy to forget this when in the enjoyment of present-day blessings, yet it is true, and especially should it be remembered on Memorial day.

NATION ONE IN SERVICES OF MEMORIAL

An order issued by general Logan, head of the Grand Army of the Republic, dated May 5, 1868, set aside May 30 for the strewing of flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of dead comrades in every part of the land. This order, which was penned by N. P. Chipman, then adjutant general of the Grand Army, is known as No. 11, and is always read with Lincoln's Gettysburg address at services held by the Grand Army on Memorial day, Rufus R. Wilson writes, in the New York Herald Tribune.

General Logan's order was generally obeyed by the then existing Grand Army posts. On May 30, 1868, the ceremony was observed through New England and the middle and western states, while in the South the day was celebrated by a considerable number of Grand Army posts. At Arlington, Va., the services were especially impressive, Gen. James A. Garfield, then a member of congress, being the principal speaker. He reached what was regarded by those who heard it as his finest oratorical achievement, at least on a subject not political. Another year found Memorial day firmly established as a national institution.

"The Blue and the Gray."

A poem, written and published in 1867, gave impetus to the idea of Memorial day. The poem was "The Blue and the Gray," and its author, Francis Miles Finch, a then little known lawyer of forty, living on the shores of Lake Cayuga at Ithaca, N. Y. The morrow of Lee's surrender found both North and South weary of conflict and longing for peace. In a thousand pulpits an oft-used text was the words of Micah; "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." In each of a million homes there was at least one vacant chair. Hatred still smoldered, a hatred made more intense in the North by Lincoln's assassination and rekindled in the South by the "carpet-bag" government which followed it, and by the course of President Johnson, which led to his impeachment.

And so counsels of moderation and forgiveness only served to temper, not to appease, the bitter recollections of four years of strife and carnage. It remained for Finch, by appealing to the memory of the dead in his verses, "The Blue and the Gray," to strike the note of reconciliation. Written at Ithaca and published first in the Atlantic Monthly, the poem instantly touched the popular heart. Within a month it was being reprinted and quoted in every part of the land.

National Cemetery Idea.

Another man who deserves an honored place in this brief chronicle is Thomas Brougham Baker, father of the national cemetery idea, which preceded its national companion thought, Memorial day. Baker was born of theatrical parents in New York in 1834, and acted with Laura Keene and John Brougham, his adopted father, and in 1861 was a member of the stock company which played in the Washington theater. Among his close friends at that period was Capt. E. L. Hartz, an assistant to Col. D. H. Rucker, depot quartermaster.

One day Baker and Hartz while riding on Seventh street, Washington, witnessed the burial, just off that thoroughfare, of a soldier of the Sixth Massachusetts volunteers. On the instant the thought came to Baker that there should be in every large city a cemetery for the burial of soldiers, owned or controlled by the government, and that there should be a bureau to keep a record of the burial.

Hartz disapproved the idea, declaring that a soldier should be buried where he fell, and that Baker's plan was an impractical one. Baker received a like answer when he laid his suggestion before Simon Cameron, then secretary of war. Cameron listened impatiently, then brusquely dismissed his caller with a declaration that such a plan had never been adopted by any country and never should be; that soldiers should rest where they fell, and that civilian cemeteries supplied graves for those who did not fall in battle.

Arlington Established.

Baker did not give up the fight for his idea, and finally found a whole-hearted supporter in General Nicholas, later Sherman's chief-of-staff. They worked together and when Edwin M. Stanton succeeded Cameron, Baker's plan was laid before him. He approved of it. Six acres in the rear of the Old Soldiers' home at Washington were set aside as a national cemetery and the first burial was made on August 3, 1862, although the formal order making it a national cemetery was not issued until 1864.

Baker was appointed a clerk in the quartermaster's office with charge of the burial records of the army and held that post until 1869. Later for eight years he was employed in and around Richmond, compiling cemetery records and inspecting matters connected with the burial corps. Then he was transferred to a clerkship in the quartermaster's office at Chicago.

Eighty-four National Cemeteries.

Before he died Baker saw the system spread to thirty-one states and territories and across the border to Mexico. National cemeteries now number eighty-four. There are seventeen in Virginia, seven in Tennessee, six in Kentucky, four each in North Carolina, Louisiana and Illinois; three each in Maryland, Mississippi, Arkansas and Missouri; two each in the District of Columbia, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Texas, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Kansas, and one each in Alabama, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Nebraska, New Mexico, Montana, California and Alaska. The eighty-fourth cemetery is in Mexico City, where are buried the soldiers who fell in the war with Mexico.

They contain the graves of a great army composed of 249,279 known and 153,116 unidentified soldiers. In France, Belgium and England there sleep 30,513 soldiers killed in the World war, so that in these latter times the observance of Memorial day has become a ceremony of international significance, sacred to the memory of all our soldiers who died in defense of the nation.

Beauty Tempers Sadness.

Arlington is easily the most beautiful of all our national cemeteries. Nor is it an altogether mournful place. The breeze always sings through its trees, most days bring sunshine in their train, the view of the river and distant Capital moves and appeals, and the birds make it their home in all seasons, for they know in cemeteries they are safe. The Kentucky cardinal is there winter and summer, whistling as cheerily as any fife at reveille, and with it, an equally joyous sprite, is the tufted titmouse in its Confederate gray.

Gettysburg, in addition to its use as a national cemetery, is probably the most clearly defined of any of the great battlefields of the world. Nearly all of the regiments and brigades which fought there long ago located with monuments the precise positions held by them at the most critical moments of three doubtful and momentous days, so that it is now easy, even for a layman, to trace the course of the conflict which marked high tide for the Confederacy and the beginning of the end of the war between the states.

Hayward Soda Works

HAYWARD SODA WORKS For a Supply of Those Sparkling Cold Beverages, Delicious With Meals and Refreshing After Strenuous Summer Sports

This well known bottling company is deserving of more than a passing notice in this business review of the onward progress of this county, as they are perhaps the largest producers of beverages in this section of the state, their brand being a standard of quality and is so recognized by the trade for a radius of miles around, as they deliver to all parts of this county.

Experience in the manufacture of such goods and realizing the popular demand for pure and wholesome refreshments, Mr. Simons the manager, has gone farther than the pure food law requires and turns out a product that is entirely free form impurities as well as being delicious and wholesome. The demand on the Hayward Soda works is rapidly increasing throughout the county. It is indeed pleasing to be able to secure their brand. Now that the hot weather season is approaching, products of the Hayward Soda works will be found at all leading soft drink places in the county.

The public should look at the label before drinking any soft drinks and should demand the products of this firm.

In this modern plant which is at 1164 B st., Hayward, the bottle is hardly touched by human hands untill it is ready to be put in the cases for delivery. The plant is a credit to Alameda county and is open at all times to the inspection of the public who are cordially invited. Few cities many times larger can boast of such a modern and scientifically equipped bottling works.

We are pleased to point with pride to the Hayward Soda works and to commend S. Simons, manager, on the class of goods furnished to the trade, and also the admirable way in which the business is conducted. Insist upon products from the Hayward Soda works.

Memorial Day

By WM. T. DAVIS

The guns were still; above the hill
In regal splendor rose the moon.
And from the woodland's dusky heart
I heard the trickle of a tune.
I followed it through brush and briar,
And in a deep and dewy dale
I found a wooden cross; and lo!
Above it sang a nightingale.

Upon the mound, beneath the cross,
Parts of a shattered airplane lay.
Scorched, battered ruins that had once
Soared in the flaming eve of day.
Proud pinions that above the clouds
Defied the lightning and the gale
O'er which, in vernal solitude
Now, sweetly sang the nightingale.

That song, it soared, as once had soared
The pinions of that man made bird,
That now upon that lonely grave
To neither breeze nor motor stirred.
And then as down to earth that plane
Had dropped beneath the leaden hail,
The stream of liquid music died,
And silent sat the nightingale.

I bared my head. I did not know
What aviator brave and young
Slept there beneath that wrecked machine;
But I had heard his requiem sung.
The altar was the broken plane;
The candles were the moonbeams pale;
The incense, wandering airs of night;
The choirister, the nightingale.

Hayward Plumbing Co.

MODERN ESTABLISHMENT for Sanitary Engineering Conducted by Hayward Plumbing Company, Whose Considerations are Quality and Reasonable Prices.

In the upbuilding of the modern American city of the twentieth century, the service of the modern sanitary engineers is of the most value, for by the modern standard of living the length of the average human life has been increased. This is partially due to the work of the sanitary engineer, he being a man of advanced ideas with a thorough knowledge of the laws of sanitation.

As regards the above we cannot, in view of the onward progress of the community, fail to compliment him as he is regarded as most practical and competent in his line and is assisted by the most competent corps of helpers he could secure.

The Hayward Plumbing Company operates a modern plumbing establishment at 1061 "A" street, Hayward. Its work embraces steam heating, pipe fitting, and, in fact, everything connected with plumbing and allied products, and its ability and facilities for undertaking and carrying to completion, even in the most intricate work in these lines, is well known to those who, in the past, have had business dealings with the firm.

Quality is its first consideration and prices are always reasonable. It carries a stock at all times of everything used in its lines, and you can go there and pick out what you want and see it before you buy it.

Those of our readers who desire work of the above character executed should avail themselves of the service of this concern, and we can, at all times, assure them of reliable work, while the charges are always right. Mr. Haskell, the owner and manager, is courteous and affable and will be pleased to assist anyone with their plans.

FIRST TO GIVE LIFE

The first Yank to die for France in the World war, Edward Mandell Stone, was remembered in this memorial ceremony at the monument to American volunteers in Paris on the anniversary of his death. The Association of American Volunteer Combatants deposited a wreath in tribute to Stone, who, serving with the French Foreign Legion, fell in 1915.

Day to Be Cherished Through All the Years

Among all the ceremonial days widely observed in this country none has more human appeal than Memorial day, which flowered from roots springing from graves while the earth was still dank upon them and watered by tears that flowed from grief time had not yet assuaged. Those who advocate abolishing it on the ground that it perpetuates sectionalism overlook the achievements of intervening history. The Spanish-American and World wars found the sons of those who fought against each other at Antietam and Gettysburg fighting together under one flag against a common enemy; and the graves of those who fell in these wars receive the same attention as the graves of the Blue and the Gray. The graveside of those who have died in battle is not a breeding place of animosities.

The origin of Memorial day may well be forgotten, as it is probable it will be in time to come. The day itself should be preserved and cherished, as a recognition by the living of the supreme sacrifice made by the dead, a symbolic expression of a debt that can never be repaid in kind. Only by so doing can we assure those whose memories we honor today that they did not die in vain.

The years have stalked in slow procession by.
But they and all they spell cannot erase
A shivered tree against the saddest sky
That ever shrouded earth; a shell-shot space
Where broken shapes in khaki blankets lie,
Some moaning in the slanting spears of rain,
Some peaceful with the peace of those who die,
Hoarse guns that crack and crash—again—again;
Lead feet that drag along a dull, wet lane,
Chill streams that from the rusty helmets flow,
And sodden clothes; and dank winds that complain
And scourge the flesh, and wring the heart below.
Ah, comrades! When the wind and sky are gray,
Twelve years ago may be but yesterday.
—Wilson Clough, in the Laramie Republican-Boomer

Future Memorials

Decoration day is undergoing a process of evolution. It was established after the Civil war as a specific occasion for paying tribute to the Northern soldiers who had fallen in that struggle. Then the wounds of war still were bleeding. The armed clashes below the Potomac had brought heartbreaks into thousands of homes, and tributes to the memory of the fallen made strong appeal.

But the specific occasion that gave birth to the holiday is receding into the mists of history. During the intervening half century there have been tendencies in two directions—one toward a festival of patriotism and one toward an occasion of general memorial for all the dead.

It is this latter tendency which is likely to conquer in the end. It seems probable that gradually the occasion will attain the status of All Soul's day in some of the European countries. It will be one day in the year given over entirely to the memory of all those who have fallen on the battlefields of life and gone before us on that mysterious pilgrimage into the dark. But it will come in the high tide of the month of flowers, symbols of ever-recurring life and hope, rather than in the melancholy mists of autumn, when contemplation of death is most natural.

A people has need of such a day. The actual observance of Memorial day long has transcended the specific purpose for which it was established. It has become a time of family mourning, not alone for soldiers who died for their country, but for mothers and fathers, sisters, brothers, husbands, wives and children. They are all gone as comrades in the one great war which encompasses all other wars—that of the weak, helpless mortal against the forces of fate and nature.

The time may come when May 30 will be the most profoundly religious occasion of the year, when the relations of men with each other, which result in states and cults and wars, will be buried temporarily in contemplation of the relations of all men with the powers which rule the waves of the great ocean of time and space upon which our little world is tossed through the great darkness.

Day of Reunion

Most happy, certainly, was the choice of the 30th of May as Memorial day, not only because it comes in the fullness of the season of flowers, but because it does not fall on the anniversary of the more sanguinary engagements of the Civil war. Of course, in four years of fighting, there were conflicts on that date, but they were minor.

Memorial day is fortunate in still another way. It may fairly be regarded, in view of the final scenes of the war, as a day typical of peace and reunion. Not until the close of May, 1865, did it become clear not only that the war was over in the main field of conflict, but that the struggle would also be terminated west of the Mississippi. The surrender of Lee took place on the 9th of April, but military operations in Alabama and Georgia continued throughout the greater part of the month.

The capitulation of the redoubtable Joe Johnston occurred on April 26, but Kirby Smith beyond the Mississippi had called upon his army to continue the struggle, and during the three weeks following both citizens and troops in that region took steps for that purpose. It was feared that a failure to comprehend the hopelessness of further resistance might prolong guerilla operations in the Southwest through the summer at least. However, better counsels prevailed when the true state of affairs became known there; and on the 26th of May, at New Orleans, General Buckner signed a convention with General Osterhaus for the surrender of the entire army of Kirby. From that time all armed resistance on the part of the Confederacy was over.

These events of more than half a century ago show that Memorial day is properly to be regarded as a memorial of the peace that followed the mightiest and bloodiest civil war in history. Even during the war the women of the South strewed the graves of soldiers with flowers. The custom was gradually adopted throughout the country, and in 1868 Gen. John A. Logan, as commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, appointed May 30 for the purpose to which it has since been dedicated by the whole nation.—Detroit News.

Rainbow Auto Paint Shop

DUCO SATISFIES MOTORISTS and the Rainbow Paint Shop Refinishes your Old Car within Eight Days, Making it Look Distinctly Beautiful in any Color Desired.

Modern inventions have aided no trade recently to a greater extent than they have the automobile painting trade. The invention of lacquers has revolutionized the automobile painting business and greatly aided the owner of cars by reducing appreciably his costs for painting as enamel has durable characteristics that are found in no other automobile finish.

The Rainbow Auto Painting located at 525 Watkins street, opposite the Lustig Furniture Co. Hayward, conducts an authorized Duco auto refinishing station and it is well worth your while to make sure of getting the real DuPont Duco on your car by having them do the work. There are many inferior imitations of Duco on the market, hence it is best to leave your car with some one who is reliable and well known, who features superior products and displays a DuPont Duco sign at the shop.

They can refinish your car in a remarkably short time—you need not lose the use of it for more than six or eight days. You can pick the colors you like from a wide selection of the season's most popular shades. The result will be a distinctively beautiful car which will retain its good looks practically indefinitely.

Rain, sun, snow, sleet, boiling water, mud, sand, tar, battery acids, salt air, alkaline dust and ordinary bumps cannot harm Duco's unusual durable finish. Instead of growing dull and lifeless with age DuPont actually gets brighter and glossier. It is also much easier, quicker and cheaper to keep clean than ordinary finishes. And when you are ready to trade your car in, its value will be greater because of the Duco finish.

You can do this by letting them apply Duco, the automobile finish perfected by the DuPont Company.

Drop in today and let them give you an estimate on the cost of painting your car.

The Graham Hatchery

THE GRAHAM HATCHERY Provides People of This Region with Healthy Chicks and Offers Patrons the Best of Service by Latest Scientific Methods now in Vogue.

In this age of specialization and high powered business it is the farm which has been lagging behind and there is no example of modern methods in farming more prominent in this part of the state than the Graham Hatchery.

This establishment is conducted on a business and scientific basis. There is no haphazard or guess work on the place. Books are kept on everything and the latest scientific methods are in vogue. It is the lack of these two ideas that has sent many a farmer to the complaining crowd. Incubators, the latest style of drinking fountains, chicken houses that are clean and free from all infection, the proper kind of food, urns that are kept in the best of condition—all are elements that make this one of the model establishments of the whole country.

The Graham Hatchery, of Hayward, is equipped with the very best of incubators and brooders and great care is taken with the chicks to see that they are in the best of condition before being sent out. People who have bought here have had excellent success and they can refer anyone who doubts to numerous successful chicken raisers.

They are equipped with a good capacity incubator and feature well known strains.

The success of the Graham Hatchery has been marked and is the result of their healthy baby chicks and the fact that they have always asked fair prices and give the best service.

We are pleased to compliment them and to give them in this review the prominent position that the progressive and reliable policies have merited.

Greatest of Tributes, "He Died for America"

One need not have stood by the Unknown Soldier's tomb at Arlington to understand why such a shrine evokes today in many countries a tribute of reverent silence, why it draws the thoughts of millions of Americans by its austere yet tender significance. It is the element of mystery, so beautifully woven into the fabric of the idea, that gives to it a universal appeal.

Because no human being knows, nor ever will know, what body rests there, it perfectly symbolizes each and all the legions of America's dead.

No state, no section, can claim this veiled figure as its own; it belongs to the nation. No pride of birth or breeding can sully the sacrifice it represents; forever sealed is the question whether the nameless warrior was cultured or illiterate, rich or poor, whether the blood he shed had strains of Celt or Saxon, Slav or Latin, Norse or Puritan.

One thing, and one alone, makes illustrious his memory—an American for America he laid down his life. "For greater love hath no man than this."

To be the solace of those that mourn, the symbol of a nation's gratitude and its ideals of sacrifice—these are the glories that exalt the Unknown Soldier who lies there, pillowed on earth from the battlefield where he gave his life, asleep under the mantle of everlasting remembrance.

If business is good: ADVERTISE.

A Comrade Mustered Out

Veterans who fought in the Blue, at the grave of a comrade who has answered the last call. Memorial day is their day—and his.

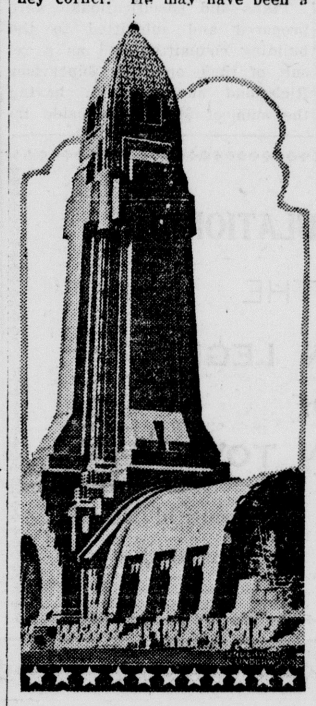
Grim Reminder of War Marks Verdun Struggle

The greatest battlefield of the war was Verdun. At and about it, 400,000 French alone were killed. How many Germans perished there we do not know.

Fifteen years have passed since that mighty battle began. Shell holes still scar the landscape. Stumps and trunks of deadened trees mutely tell a story. The grimmest relics are the bones. They are gathered, put in long boxes and labeled with the name of the sector in which they were found, and the boxes are then deposited in the ossuary, close by Fort Douamont. A huge building with a crypt for each sector serves as a memorial. The American Legion joined in the dedication.

In this ossuary the mingled bones of friend and foe rest together till the judgment day. You look into a wooden box, larger than a casket. It is full to overflowing of bones, bones, bones—arm bones, leg bones, ribs and jaws, vertebrae and skulls. The eyeless bones of some man's head are grinning at you.

He may have been a Prussian junker with imperious, waxed mustache turning saucily upward, once frowning as his saber rattled by his side. He may have been a peasant from Brittany, who left his ox cart by the side of the house and his wooden shoes in the chimney corner. He may have been a German landsman who wanted war no more than the rest of us, but who fought his best because he thought it was his duty to his country.



A light which will forever shine over one of the great battlefields of history: The beacon above the ossuary at Douamont, which was dedicated on the fourteenth anniversary of the beginning of the battle of Verdun.

There they lie together. These are the dead, with names unknown—the unforgotten dead. What say they about bristling armaments, iron fists and pieces of paper that threaten peace?

Speeches were made at the dedication of this ossuary by statesmen and warriors who live and breathe. But the greatest speech of all came from those mouldering bones whose utter silence shouts in peals of thunder—"We are the dead."

Tribute to British Soldiers

British war veterans last year unveiled in Northwest cemetery at Philadelphia a large granite cross of sacrifice in memory of soldiers of Great Britain who are buried in the cemetery. There was a parade of British-American war veterans and other organizations. Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, was the principal speaker. The shaft, 22 feet high, is similar to 1,050 others erected to the memory of British service men in all parts of the world.

Duty of Citizenship

Perpetuation of the principles upon which Memorial day is founded is a sacred obligation which no American may properly shirk.

American Creamery Co.

AMERICAN CREAMERY CO. in Alameda County Gives Delivery Service and Offers Pure Products that are Dependable for Private Homes and Restaurants.

It was not so many years ago when milk was delivered from door to door in a can and each housewife was measured out her purchase in a measuring cup. The quality of the milk was a thing of question. The percentage of butterfat, the health of the cows and the cleanliness of the dealer was not known. Yet this service was far better than that afforded in smaller communities. In such places you were not delivered milk but went with a pail to the nearest owner of a cow. Today in many small towns this practice is still kept up. Today in Alameda county, and especially in Washington township you may have fresh milk every day. Not only fresh milk but pure milk. A model dairy is one of our most valued assets.

The American Creamery company is serving the public in many capacities from their large establishment located at 19 Castro street, Hayward. They are extensive dealers in both retail and wholesale milk and cream.

A special feature of this concern is their service to mothers. Many mothers of so-called bottle-fed babies have found few concerns so painstaking in their service as this one. Every effort is exerted to give the most complete service possible; especially in the furnishing of their pure wholesome milk for babies.

The success of their business should be a profitable example for other business firms to follow, for when they started in business, the proprietor made the policy of fair and honest dealings, surrounding himself with able assistants.

The service you receive today from this concern is due to their modern and advanced ideas. The milk you purchase should have your confidence. We recommend the American Creamery company's products for the home.

Cottage Bakery Company

SELECTION OF BREAD for Home Use is Housewife's Problem which is Simplified by Purchasing Cottage Bakery Goods from local Grocers—eight of them in the Township.

The baking industry is practically as old as fire, but the methods used in ancient times have greatly changed. Today it is quite different and at the Cottage Bakery the latest machinery and ovens are used in the production of bakery goods for the public.

The Cottage Bakery whose modern plant is located at 939 B St, Haywards is where superior products are made that have met with popular reception throughout this section.

This model institution does more than a business in Hayward as it has gained many new customers from the neighboring communities and has practically doubled the business of the place. It transacts a large business and renders the best of service to its large numbers of patrons through your local grocer.

The very best of materials enter into their high class products and so great has been the care to render the best of service that they have equipped their place with machinery to an extent that their products are touched very little by human hands.

As a consequence we find the business of The Cottage Bakery Co. spreading for and wide over this part of the country, and in this review we are glad to give commendable mention to their activities.

From the time they first began operations it was evident to those interested in the growth and expansion of this part of the state that this well known bakery was one of the highly efficient organizations in this part of the county.

In this march of progress all are willing to admit that The Cottage Baking Co. has merited the enviable reputation which it has established, and that its work is the equal of that of any firm and is vastly superior to that of the average baking concern.

E. Friedricks, one of the owners has just recently been elected president of The American Society of Bakery Engineers of San Francisco.

Verzic's Bakery . .

VERZIC'S BAKERY OPERATES with Modern Machinery in Sanitary Plant; Producing Breads and Pastries of all Kinds for Families Living in Cities and Rural Districts.

A visit to the Hayward plant proves interesting to the uninitiated. Up-to-date machinery and scrupulously clean condition of everything is noticeable. It is the policy of this baking concern not only to produce bakery goods of all kinds that will pass inspection, but to turn out products that are as near to the acme of perfection as modern machinery will permit.

The Verzic Bakery is one of the major industries in this county and thus plays a prominent part in commercial activity. The plant is most modern throughout, the business is conducted along progressive lines.

Analysis will show that their food products, their brand of bread, as well as their other bakery products, are absolutely free from anything injurious and consequently they are not only health protecting but health giving as well.

A special feature of Verzic's Bakery is their European "Rye" bread. If the public could understand thoroughly how these products are manufactured here in this modern plant, there would be very few families who would not be patrons of their brands of bakery goods.

Peter Verzic, the proprietor, has been closely allied with the large business interests of Hayward and southern Alameda county for some time, and is at all times endeavoring to render the best of service and quality products to their many patrons thorought the Washington Township. They have added new and more equipment from time to time, and have been instrumental in building up local industry, while building a large business for themselves.

Veterans of Civil War Passing Into History

Although the thin blue line of the Civil war is growing thinner at the rate of 12,000 a year there are still 60,000 of the old boys marching bravely, eyes front, into the sunset, says the San Francisco Chronicle.

Sixty thousand survivors so many years after the great conflict opened is a surprising number. It makes an army comparable in size to some of the forces with which conquerors have changed the history of the world. It is twice as many as Alexander led to the destruction of the Persian empire, twice the force with which Sulla destroyed Mithridates, more than Napoleon led into Italy, equal to Wellington's army in action at Waterloo, only 5,000 less than Lee commanded at Gettysburg.

Nevertheless, it is a wistful contrast to the 2,000,000 enrolled under the Union banner, to the 1,000,000 under arms when the war was closed and to the 745,000 on the pension roll when it reached high water mark some 30 years ago.

The decrease of 6,000 in the last six months is a ratio which if kept up will mean the dissolving of the blue line into the mists of history within another ten years.

The Pratt Mortuary

PRATT MORTUARY RENDERS Services that are Devoted to Needs of Humanity and Plays Essential Parts at a Time When they are Most Needed.

The modern funeral director in any city, indeed plays a most essential part in that city's progress. For the care of our deceased ones is a duty that someone must perform.

A few years ago a funeral home consisted of one room, and it was not necesary to have modern equipment, or several large rooms to take care of all the details, together with automobile hearses, music room and many other features that we now have today.

Yet the price of funeral services was as high as it is now, but the modern home of today contains everything to take care of the slighest detail. Instead of being conducted from just one room they now occupy several rooms, and the furniture is even made so that it blends perfectly with the surroundings. Thus everything is arranged harmoniously to conform with more modern ideas of progress.

The Pratt Mortuary which is located at 1044-C Street, Hayward under the competent direction of Walter F. Flierl, has adopted all of these ideas into their establishment, and instead of having services conducted from one room their funeral home is most modern, together with modern equipment, hearse, ambulance service and funeral cars.

Ofttimes the wishes of the family are carried out to the fullest degree, without being asked to look after the slightest detail, as they have been in the business for many years and understand the needs of more modern funeral services.

The matter of expense is left entirely up to the individual, and no obligations accrue by merely asking questions as to the different styles and types of stock carried. Those are matters left for you to decide.

We seek the services of a funeral director at a time when his service is most needed, and when our minds cannot seem to assimilate those masses of details concerning arrangements for the deceased. Those are the duties of the modern funeral director—he serves you best when you need him most.

Wallace Studio . .

FINEST WORKS OF Photographic Art on Display at Wallace Studios, Where Modern Science, Skill, and Natural Beauty Are Combined to Make Possible Life-like Reproductions.

In a review of this character it is eminently fitting that we devote our space to a frank testimonial of the excellent work performed at this studio, in the successful practice of this interesting and artistic profession.

The art of photography, which was introduced by DeGuerre nearly a century ago, has within the period developed from a mechanical trade to an art of science and the photographer today must be a person of advanced ideas and thorough training so as to successfully compete with those who are now making this profession an art of science. As regards the above, we can say that this studio is in charge of finished photographers who have made a life study of this interesting and artistic profession and never let an opportunity pass to attend the convention of photography where they may be able to learn all of the art and prepare themselves to give customers the latest and best modern photography, executed by them in a truly artistic manner.

For the making of all commercial pictures, anywhere at anytime, a phone call to Hayward 648 will bring this service to you. Also agents for Q R. S. DeVey movie pictures and equipment. Always glad to demonstrate. Prices within reach of all.

The Wallace Studios, 1090 "B" street, Hayward, which may be termed this county's art center, have the latest mechanical devices for the production of artistic photography and can execute anything in the way of modern photography to please the most critical.

In the artistic production of children's pictures they have gained well merited commendations. In the matter of making out-door views and commercial work they have ably demonstrated their ability on many occasions. They have an exellent display, including photographs of many well known people of this county.

Taken all in all both Mr. and Mrs. Wallace are worthy members of the profession and the citizens of this section are to be congratulated upon having individuals of such ability in their midst.

tect, F. W. Petersen, superintendent of buildings for Alameda county, Commander R. K. Wilson and Adjutant Frank X. Veit of Washington Township Post, with F. V. Jones and Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond, members of Citizens' Advisory Board, went over the question of the amount of money to be appropriated for the proposed memorial building. It was decided that not less than $5000 should be provided for in the county budget with which to purchase furnishings, and at the request of Supervisor Richmond the county architect agreed to prepare estimate cost estimates for three different types of buildings—a frame stucco type, a hollow tile stucco style and a building of concrete and stucco. These estimates, it was agreed, would act as a guide for the amount of money needed.

Plans and specifications were prepared and submitted to the building committee and as a result of their opinions, Supervisor Richmond succeeded in having the sum of $40,000 set aside instead of the $30,000 first suggested.

Following the legal procedure of calling for bids, the Board of Supervisors, on July 2, 1929, with Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond, F. V. Jones and Adjutant Frank X. Veit being present to represent Washington Township Post 195, opened the bids and awarded the contract for the construction of a hollow tile and stucco faced type of building to John E. Brannagh of Oakland. The contract price was $47,800. There were nine other bidders. Brannagh's bid exceeded the estimate of the county architect, but the Board of Supervisors agreed to take care of the extra cost.

The building was started on July 29, 1929 and was completed and accepted by the Board of Supervisors March 25, 1930, and at a meeting of Washington Township Post held recently, preparations were started for the formal dedicatory ceremonies, which are to be held May 30th.

The final cost of the building amounts to more than $50,000, and added to this amount will be about $7500 for furnishings.

Thomas Hand Made Tile Co.

THOMAS HAND MADE Roof Tile Adds Graciousness and Colorful Beauty to Any Edifice. Building Contractors Endorse its Lasting Qualities and Home Owners Select It.

In an age of this kind when one sees homes being erected on every hand, it is well to remark on the possibilities of tile construction buildings. More effort has been made in California than any other state to make its homes conform to artistic as well as durable lines. Effects are being constantly worked out by progressive architects in the use of hand made roof tile.

The architecture of the Romans stands today as a memorial to the durability of clay products as well as to the art of the golden age. The ancient masons built with the purpose of creating a beautiful structure that would be fire safe and stand the test of time. How well they carried out their purpose! Is it not proper that we should work along those lines here in California?

We have seen Roof Tile, as you may have also , in many of the schools and public buildings here in California and we know of some of the effects that can be had in using roof tile in the construction of dwellings. Many home builders are recommending tile. We've talked to some of them and we know what it would mean to Washington township if all our construction were along that line. Let us build with the purpose of not only making for today but for tomorrow. Let's use roof tile on our homes.

This is strictly a program of economy and if followed here will make a section to be admired long after many of our neighboring communities have been forced by time and fire, to rebuild.

The Thomas Hand Made Roof Tile Company , whose plant is located on the Niles Highway at Decoto, is the manufacturer of Hand Made Roof Tile for all types of buildings, whether it be for a home, office building or a large industrial structure, Frank J. Thomas the proprietor and manager has had much experience in this line of work and is always glad to advise the prospective builder on the best type of roof tile to be used. Build for permanance and consult the Thomas Hand Made Roof Tile Company before you build.

Co-Operation Brings ACHIEVEMENT

During the stirring days of the World War the people of America learned the lesson of Co-operative Effort.

In times of peace all substantial civic advancements have been made by the same team-work that helped win the War.

The Niles Chamber of Commerce, during the days of 1917 and 1918 was active in helping to "Keep the Home Fires Burning." It took a foremost place in all Red Cross drives and Liberty Loan Campaigns.

Since the return of the soldier boys, the Niles Chamber of Commerce has taken an active interest in their welfare. It has cooperated in every effort to secure an appropriate memorial for those who participated in the great conflict.

With the dedication of the beautiful new structure on Memorial Day, the Niles Chamber of Commerce extends its

TOYON BRANCH GIVES ANNUAL GARDEN PARTY AT J. C. SHINN ESTATE

Hundreds Patronize Benefit Dinner and Various Booths

Hundreds of local people attended the annual garden party given in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shinn as a benefit for the Toyon Branch of the Baby Hospital, Saturday. A delicious ham dinner was served by a caterer of Oakland. Special tables were reserved for the business men, so that they could return to their work without loss of time.

The tables and booths were inviting in their beautiful setting of lawn, shrubs, and trees.

In the afternoon a program of merit was presented to a large audience of guests. Numbers were played by the Washington Union High School band under the direction of John Kimber. Vocal selections were rendered by the singing class of the Niles Grammar School led by Mrs. Charlotte Foster. Stunts were put on by the Niles Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, and several Japanese dances by the children. Entertainment was furnished by Laura Lloyd Roderick, National Broadcasting Company radio artist. Dancing was enjoyed by many of the people. There were pony rides and archery for the young people. Everyone present had a splendid afternoon, which proved that the garden party was a success socially, as well as it was financially.

Considerable proceeds were netted from the various booths located in the gardens. Each booth was under the supervision of a chairman, namely: Mrs. Eugene Stevenson, Centerville, candy; Mrs. William H. Ford, Niles, lunch; Mrs. F. M. Hudson, Niles, coffee; Mrs. J. E. Townsend, Niles, fish pond; Mrs. J. M. Williamson, Niles, ice cream and lemonade; Mrs. Walter Robie, Alvarado, novelties; Mrs. Lawrence Bunting, Niles, home-cooked food; Mrs. J. E. Thane, Niles, old curiosity shop; Mrs. William D. Patterson, Arden, mystery; Mrs. Theodore Harvey, brooms; and Mrs. Carrie Emerson, Centerville, California Nursery stock. Mrs. August May, of Alvarado, was the cashier.

Among the out-of-town guests at the garden party were Mrs. Gertrude Botton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson, Mrs. Fred Meyer, Mrs. Noah Adams, Mrs. R. Attinson and daughters, of Oakland, Mrs. .E E. Wade, Mrs. Robert Risdon, Mrs. Elizabeth Arendberg, of San Francisco, and Miss Jean Adams, of Oakland. Many ladies were present from Hayward.

Rebekahs of Niles are making plans and selling tickets for a card party to be given in the Odd Fellows hall on June 14.

CHAMBER TO HAVE ANNUAL BANQUET IN NILES JUNE 3

Tuesday's Meeting Given All To Business Discussion

Only matters pertaining to the business of the Niles Chamber of Commerce were discussed at the meeting, Tuesday noon in the Florence Restaurant. President L. E. Smith presided at the meeting, which was well attended.

A letter was read from the Department of Public Works to Mr. Roeding in regard to the landscaping of the highway property near the Niles S. P. subway, stating that the project as proposed would cost the state approximately $5,600, and that California could not assume any of this expense, but would take over the expense of maintenance after the work was completed.

Vice-president F. V. Jones stated that it would be impossible to raise sufficient funds to complete this work from the community, and suggested that a letter be written to the state highway commission pointing out that it was their property that was to be beautified, also stating the local position in the matter. It was voted that such a letter be written, and the secretary and Mr. Jones were instructed to draft it.

Through President Smith, the ladies of the Toyon Branch of the Baby Hospital thanked the members of the chamber of commerce for their loyal support in attending the luncheon, Saturday.

The body unanimously voted that a letter of thanks be written to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ford for their assistance and generosity to the Boy Scouts of Niles.

W. B. Kirk volunteered to represent the organization at the meeting of the Community Council regarding the matter of the new Alameda County Court House.

Tickets for the annual banquet of June 3, were put on sale, with the announcement that no tickets would be sold after next Saturday noon. It is to be held in the Veterans' Memorial building.

C. F. Smith was appointed membership chairman for next week's meeting.

CONCERT AND PARADE TO PRECEDE SIMPLE OPENING PROGRAMME

ERROR CAUSES BAND TO PLACE 4TH IN CONTEST

According to an official report the Washington Township School Band, which recently competed in the state contest held in Sacramento, placed fourth in Class B instead of sixth as first, erroneously announced. The correct points scored by the four highest bands were Willows 371, Yuba City 364, Marysville 357, and Washington 354.

Willows took eighth place in the contest held in San Francisco, last year, and came to the top this spring. As this was the first year that the local band has ever entered, it is most creditable that they did so well as they did.

The band from this township that made the trip to the state capitol was the largest ever competing in a state contest of this kind, there being 104 players present.

News Editor Is Ill At Her Home in Niles

Mrs. Virginia Burrington, news editor of the Township Register, is confined to her bed with illness at her home in Niles canyon. Her position on the paper is being taken by Orville Blose.

According to doctor's orders Mrs. Burrington will be unable to return to work for a month or more.

Her many friends hope that she will soon be strong enough to continue with the work, which she has performed so well.

It is reported that the Niles Camp Fire Girls are to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ford on a yachting party on June 7.

Supervisor Richmond Will Make Dedicatory Address

Formal but simple plans have been made for the dedication of the $60,000 Veterans' Memorial Building, tomorrow afternoon. The committee decided that it was only proper and fitting with the day that an elaborate or extravagant program should not be presented.

The afternoon's program is to be opened with a half hour band concert given by the Washington Township School Band, directed by John E. Kimber. Numbers to be played by these young musicians are "Star Spangled Banner," "The Thunderer" by Sousa, "Heroes' March,' by Schubert, "American Patrol" by Meacham, and "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa. This concert will be from 1:30 to 2 P. M.

At 2 o'clock a parade will march down Main street and back on Second street to the Memorial building, where the dedication program is to be made. Those who will participate in the parade are the Washington Township Band, Berkeley's Legion Post drum and bugle corps, boy scouts from the township troops, Hayward American Legion Band, all members of the township post of the American Legion, and Supervisor Ralph Richmond.

At 2:30 the program at the building will start. It is printed in complete form on page three.

Following the dedication there is to be the raising of the colors under the supervision of Roland Bendel. Boy Scouts of the township are to take part in this ceremony.

At the end of the ceremony, the new building will be thrown open to the inspection of the public. Large crowds from all over the county are expected to be present, tomorrow.

NILES SCOUT TROOP HAS YACHTING PARTY AS GUESTS OF FORDS

Group Has One Glorious Day on S. F. Bay, Sunday

LAST Sunday Niles Boy Scout Troop No. 1, and their adult sponsors, together with a few personal guests, were given an outing on San Francisco Bay by Mr. W. H. Ford in his yacht, Arequipa.

The party left Niles at 7:00 a. m., in eight cars, with Mr. Ford, host, leading the caravan. By 8:00 the party was at the Oakland pier. A crisp breeze made the early morning air sharp and invigorating, and the boys and their grown-up companions found the ferry ride stimulating for a vigorous day beginning.

It was a little after 9:00 that the Arequipa cast her moorings, and Ford, himself, took the pilot's wheel. A skipper of no mean ability, the host shot his palatial little yacht out of the slip of the San Francisco Yacht Club, and before the boys could hardly realize that they had started the craft was nosing its way west toward the

Reception Given Women By Legion

Members of the American Legion Post 195 entertained their wives, mothers, and sweethearts in the new Veterans' Memorial building, Tuesday evening. This was open house night for all the ladies connected with the legion members.

Following the inspection of the beautiful quarters, the men gave a reception for the women in an informal manner. There were no programs nor formalities of any kind. The veterans did their best to make the ladies feel at home and enjoy the evening.

Following the reception, refreshments were prepared and served by the legionaires. The "cooks" had to admit that the men chefs can do a good cuisine job when necessary.

NILES GUILD MEETS

Mrs. Barton L. Webb and Mrs. E. C. Grau were the hostesses who served a dainty lunch at the end of the meeting.

BACK STREETS OF NILES ARE OILED AND GRAVELED

Second, G, H, and I streets, Niles, were completely oiled and graveled this week. Third street will probably be completed before the week is ended. With the completion of the cement curbing the back streets of Niles will be in perfect condition. Drainage is all right also.

This improvement was brought about by the efforts of Supervisor Ralph Richmond and the property owners. Alameda county paid for the central part of all streets graded, oiled, graveled, and rolled as smooth as the highway.

George Posey, county surveyor, and his assistant, Mr. Thomas, inspected the work, this week.

Pupils To Present A Puppet Show in June

The Niles Grammar School will give a puppet show, June 10. Two plays are to be presented by the eighth grade pupils, "Obstinate Shoemaker," and selections from "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

All of the stage, scenery and puppets were made by the eighth graders. They took unusual interest in the making and dressing of Topsy and Eva.

SPELLING CHAMPION

Estelle Martenstein, pupil of the Niles Grammar School, was acclaimed the best speller in Washington Township. She was a runner up for county honors in the spelling contest held in Hayward, Monday.

NILES PHILANTHROPIST GIVES CLUBHOUSE TO LOCAL SCOUT TROOP

Banquet Given on Night Of Dedication Program

NILES Boy Scout troop was officially presented its new home by Willam H. Ford and Mrs. Helen C. Ford, last week. By this splendid investment Mr. and Mrs. Ford contributed to the character building of the boys and girls of their community.

They were the guests of honor at a housewarming and outdoor banquet which marked the official opening of the clubhouse, which they contributed to the local troop of Boy Scouts, last Wednesday evening.

After explaining that the house, four lots and shed were a gift to the boys, Mr. Ford said that experience had taught him that the surest way to keep a club working and alive was to keep it in debt. The property, valued at $4,000 by the Boy Scout Committee, must be paid for by the scouts in semi-annual installments of $50, without interest, but the money is to be turned over to the Niles Camp Fire Girls' club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford presented the troop with two checks, one for $500 to be used as an emergency fund to meet payments on the property and keep the building in repair; the other was a blank check, the amount to be filled in by the troop committee to cover the cost of remodeling and repainting the clubhouse, and putting the premises in shape.

Steps are being taken by the committee to incorporate the Niles troop, so that it may be able to hold real estate.

Under the agreement of the gift, if the troop fails to make the semi-yearly payments, fails to keep the building and grounds in good condition, or disbands, the property is to be turned over to the Camp Fire Girls as an absolute gift. If this group cannot live up to the agreement, it would then be deeded to the trustees of the Jane R. Clough Memorial Library, another donation of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ford.

J. E. Townsend, in accepting these gifts, said, "If there were a few more people as generous toward Boy Scouts as Mr. and Mrs. Ford have proven to be, it would only be a question of a short time until the 11,000,000 boys of the United States who are not in scouting would be signed up."

Approximately 120 people ate hot dogs, cake and ice cream which were served by the scouts of the Niles troop. Homer J. Bemis, chief executive of Oakland District Council, H. L. Hopkins, Field Executive of southern Alameda county, several members of the Board of Directors of the Oakland District Council, and representatives from other troops of the township, were the other guests.

Mr. Bemis stated that as far as he knew only one other troop in the county claimed to own their own building, and the title to that particular property was in the name of the City of Oakland. As soon as the troop committee can be incorporated to take over this property, which has been given by Mr. and Mrs. Ford, the Niles troop will be the only one in this county to really own their own property.

Mr. Hopkins presented the local troop with the charter for the year

In the afternoon there will be an auction, band concert, dancing, and other amusements.

People from all over the county and township as well as a majority of Centerville's residents, attend this yearly celebration.

NEWARK DRAMATIC CLUB TO PRESENT A BENEFIT PLAY

By Julia Ruschin

The Newark Dramatic Club, under the direction of Frank Jones, will stage their play, "The Penalty of Pride," on June 6, at the Newark Grammar School Auditorium, for the benefit of the Newark Presbyterian church. The play is a very suitable one for the cause for which it is being given.

The story of the play centers around Frank Eastwick and his wife, who live beyond their means. He turns forger and gambler, and many complications set in. His wife becomes infatuated with Vivian Kirk, a poet, but the writer will say nothing more—come and see for yourself how the story untangles.

The play is a drama, but like all dramas, it has its comedy parts also.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Frank Eastwick, Frank Jones; Vivian Kirk, a poet, Robert Wright; Robert Chalmers, a banker, Edward Busalak; Tom Gresham, a young millionaire, Louis Ruschin, Jr.; a detective, Maurice Silva; Tim Travers, a tough from the Bowery, James Collins; Emily Eastwick, wife of Frank Eastwick, Mrs. Ruth Blair Townsend; Sally Clegg, sister of Mrs. Eastwick, Aileen Steinhoff; Mrs. Dalsimar, a society gossip, Laura Dutra; Elizabeth Anne Cripper, a girl from the slums, Elizabeth Laudenschlager.

Mrs. Ward Crane is recovering from a recent operation, in the San Jose hospital.

Decoto Department

Two Fires Extinguished By Decoto Fire Dept.

On May 21st, small boys, presumably playing with matches or having a forbidden smoke, set fire to a barn belonging to the Swartz estate at Ninth and G streets, Decoto, and gave the Fire Department a lively battle, due to a high wind and flying embers.

A small shed, belonging to Bernard Lopez on G street near Ninth, caught fire, but was quickly extinguished with a hand extinguisher.

The Fire Company was just returning to quarters when another fire, at Sixth and Dumbarton highway, called the Department back into action. This time dry grass along the fence caused a blaze that for a while threatened the house close by. This, too, was attributed to a child with matches. The damage done was nominal.

Quarter Million Ask For Time

Average of Sixty Such Calls Are Made in Niles

Every day a quarter of a million Pacific Coast people ask the telephone company for the correct time. It is estimated that most of the quarter million are children, many of them school children, trying to save a tardy mark.

Others of the quarter of a million want to know the hour to catch trains, keep dates and put the steak on for dinner.

Every clock tick throughout the twenty-four hours, on the average, means three telephone calls for the time of day. The average is one call for every six telephones. In this city 60 calls are made daily.

During the hour of rising in the morning, from 7 to 8, when people check slow watches for work or school time, the calls pour into the coast exchanges at the rate of 14 each second.

In the 14 months since the time service was opened in five states by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company., time calls more than quadrupled in number, from 57,000 to 250,000 daily. In all communities in the company's territory have shown a rapid increase in the popularity of time giving.

FOX T&D
Starts FRIDAY, MAY 30th

IT WILL TOUCH YOUR HEART
"ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT"
THE MOST STUPENDOUS UNDERTAKING OF THE TALKING SCREEN

"ARIZONA KID" AND REVUE AT OAKLAND THEATER

"The Cisco Kid" is back. The reckless lovable bandit of "In Old Arizona" is loving again, singing again, fighting again in "The Arizona Kid," coming to the Fox Oakland theater Friday, with Warner Baxter in the starring role.

Now there are two women in his life. One is the dark eyed dancer, Mona Maris. The other is Carol Lombard, blonde and charming. And once again the Arizona of a colorful past is the background. You thrilled to the music, the glamour and the story of that first talkie. This one is even better—better because of its perfect sound and dialogue—better because of its more seasoned cast — better because of its story.

On the stage will be Fanchon and Marco's "Good Fellows Idea," a clever revue featuring the coast's sensational acrobatic dancer, Lucille Page, and But Averill and his Songsters, a male chorus of eighteen voices. Among the numbers to be offered by the latter will be "The Stein Song," "Heidelberg," "March of the Grenadiers," and "Sing, You Sinners." Harrison and Elmo, hilarious black-face team, are booked for comedy; Helen Burke for tap dancing, and the M-G-M Four, a male quartet, for additional music.

MATRON PRAISES WELFARE CLUB MEMBERS

A letter has been received from the matron of the Child's Welfare Home, which is here printed:

"Enough cannot be said in praise and commendation of each and every member of the Welfare organization.

"How often a worker has stopped here, utterly fatigued, after having driven for hours in cold and rain, over almost impassable roads, on an errand of mercy, to locate and help some poor destitute family, and cheer their desolate hearts with a word of kindness. Or again, have a call on some blustery night, 'Don't wait until tomorrow, leave your cheerful fireside to go and bring some poor little child found wandering about the streets.' Here they find a home, warmth and comfort, and the fond attention any busy mother can give.

"What a credit to the good people this home is. The children are remembered so bountifully, especially on a festive day, but not a cup of water given in God's name, will go unrewarded.

"Perhaps, who knows? Some day some generous person will endow this home of theirs, to stand as a monument to the cause of charity, and go down through the halls of time, with love and gratitude in the hearts of our children who have found refuge in the Child's Welfare Home."

Children Given Free Medical Examination

Today Will End Exams At Local Health Center

Hundreds of five and six year old children were given a pre-school medical examination at the Washington Township Health Center in Centerville Tuesday and Wednesday. Examinations will continue today.

In previous years these examinations were given in the grammar schools, but this year the Health Center in co-operation with the California Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Bureau and Child Hygiene of the California State Department of Public Health is conducting these thorough examinations from 9 A. M. to noon.

The children's examinations are being done by local doctors, assisted by Mrs. Edna Ebright, public health nurse, and members of the Parent Teachers' Association in this district.

Any mother who has a child who will enter school in the fall is urged to take him or her to the Center, today, which is the last day of these free examinations. If any physical defects are found the parent is asked to have them removed soon.

Many of the children are vaccinated for smallpox. Although it is not compulsory this prevention should be taken, says Mrs. Ebright. There is no fee for the vaccination.

School Bond Issue Is Lost By Six Votes

The Warm Springs bond issue for a new school house was defeated by a small margin in a light vote in a recent election. The vote was 26 for the bonds and 32 against them.

High taxes and failure of eligible voters to register in time to cast their ballots were given as the reasons for the defeat.

It had been hoped that this bond issue would be passed by all progressive citizens of this town. The present grammar school is a relic of former days, and for safety's sake should be replaced by a modern structure, said one of the leading residents of Warm Springs.

"Opportunity" Fails To Place In Angels Frog Jumping Contest

Stockton Frog Breaks Record for This Type of Jumping

The Sage of Tassajara lost the money that he bet on Pleasanton's famous frog, "Opportunity," which was entered in the annnual jumping Frog Contest at Angels Camp, last week. The "Pride of San Joaquin," entered by Stockton, won this novel race.

Although the Pleasanton frog had been trained with race horses, it could not make the big jumps necessary to win the contest. As predicted last week, the Hayward entry jumped backwards as much as forward. Perhaps this is because it was raised on Mexican jumping beans. Likewise, the Livermore frog jumped around like a bronco, but got nowhere.

"The Pride of San Joaquin" broke the world's record when it made a record jump of 12 feet 10 1-2 inches.

RICHFIELD FUELS PLANES ON TRIP FROM NEW YORK

Six thousand, six hundred and seventy gallons of Richfield gasoline were required to bring the pair of gigantic Fokker F32 passenger planes of the Western Air Express from New York to Los Angeles, according to figures just released here by the Richfield Oil company.

Each of the huge flying liners averaged about 115 gallons of fuel per hour and their total flying time was approximately 29 hours, it was disclosed. The planes made an average speed of 110 miles per hour. Their total mileage was 2980 apiece.

At the various airports where the planes stopped for refueling, Western Air Express officials estimated, a total of 300,000 persons viewed the ships and approximately 2000 persons enjoyed short hops.

The new ships, largest land planes in the world for passenger service, are equipped with four compartments, each of eight deeply cushioned chairs, arranged with an aisle between them as in Pullman coaches. The cockpit for the two pilots is located high in the nose of the ship. In the center, between the four aft compartments and the forward ones, is located the steward's buffet and compartment.

Individual dressing rooms for men and women are located in the fuselage aft of the exit and entrance doors which, unlike other big planes, open on either side. Each compartment is individually designed with a special color scheme and wall decoration.

DUSTERBERRY IS SPEAKER AT MEET OF CIVIC CLUB

Resolution in Favor of Retaining Bus Service Passed

The Centerville Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution to retain the busses, at the weekly meeting, Thursday noon in the El Lido Restaurant. This resolution was given to the board of trustees in reference to the proposed action of abandoning the high school busses.

Fred T. Dusterberry, high school trustee, was the speaker of the day. He made a talk about school affairs and finances, stating that he has always been in favor of having as many busses as were needed to transport the students from their homes to school. He made clear that he did not want this necessary service discontinued for one day.

He said the board had been criticized in many of its actions and for the purposes for which the money was spent. It had been accused of extravagance and increasing the taxes. It was in response to these accusations that consideration was given to ban the bus service, which would reduce the expenses $8,000.

E. B. Hodges also made several remarks about the reduction of attendance, which would result from not running the busses.

Fred Rogers reported that the outdoor street paving celebration would be postponed until July, because of the Holy Ghost Fiestas in June.

Manuel Almaida reported that his committee was making progress on the garbage question.

President Frank Dusterberry is to be the chairman of today's luncheon meeting.

1930 Senior Class Presents "In a Mission Garden," Friday

Eight Hundred Attended This Unusual H. S. Play

The senior play of the class of 1930 of the Washington Union High school was presented to an appreciative audience of 800 in the auditorium, Friday night. The drama presented was "In A Mission Garden," written by Millis Caverly.

Previous to this one, almost all of the senior plays were comedies, but this one was not touched with humor. The acting was unusually fine for amateurs, proving that the cast was well-coached by the director, Miss Aubrey Nicely, an English teacher.

The scenery was very appropriate to the Spanish setting. Shrubbery was furnished by the California Nursery. The effect of the church behind the high stone wall was beautiful.

Howard Overacker, of Mission San Jose in the role of Father Junipero Serra, president of the Franciscan Mission, of Alto, California, was highly praised by all who saw the play. The leading lady was played by Elizabeth Shinn, of Niles, who played the part of Dona Elena Fages, niece of the governor of California in 1783, the time of the play. Dona Fages, wife of the governor, Marie White, of Centerville, played her role in a manner that brought tears to some of the people's eyes. Don Pedro Fages, governor of California, was no other but Otello Bellini, of Niles.

Others in the cast were Vernon Rose, a Franciscan Friar; Joe Faria, son of Don Pedro; Eugene Dusterberry, Elena's lover; George Robinson, Captain de Alvarado; Mary George, daughter of Captain Alvarado; Maurice Silva, Captain Martinez; Manuel Brown, Captain de Echeverria; Leroy Murphy, Lieutenant Ventura.

Edwin Wargin, a soldier; Edward Witherly, another soldier; James Logan and Alvin Gomes, serving boys; Raymond Crane and Frank Vargas, Indians; Gertrude Ellsworth, Lois Abrott, La Von Molter, Masako Sekighama, Aurelie Antron, Robin Trask, Evelyn Moore, and Mary Janeiro, Indian girls; Constance Reina, Gertrude Ellsworth, Lois Abrott, La Von Molter, and Aurelie Antron, Spanish girls, and the musicians were Maurice Caldeira and Frank Furtado. A fascinating Spanish dance was given by Constance Reina, of Alviso.

"In A Mission Garden" was a tale of charming love interests, of the pathos afforded by valiant struggles to overcome consuming homesickness, and of the excitement caused by the arrival of each new transport.

T & D SHOWS "ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT"

He was only a boy and war killed his youth. Love, honor and respect were bitter ashes in his mouth. Patriotism was a hollow mockery. Then they killed his body but his soul they could not kill. It lives on, gallant and courageous, in a mighty saga of the Unknown Soldier, "All Quiet on the Western Front."

Universal Pictures deserve the thanks of all mankind for their courage in making this picture, which is scheduled to play at the Fox T & D theater in Oakland, Friday. It is intelligent and mature entertainment, inspired by a book that won the admiration of the entire world.

You will cheer the human candor, you will forgive the fine vulgarity, you will live through the wretchedness of the trenches, and you will laugh at the rough, good comradeship—because—here is absolute truth, the most powerful drama ever recorded by the talking screen.

Concerning this picture Lloyd S. Thompson, of the San Francisco Examiner, wrote: "'All Quiet on the Western Front' is a work that confounds criticism and beggars praise. It stands out in grim and terrible magnificence, inpenetrable alike to blame and approbation. It is . . . the mightiest monument to the achievements of the audible screen . . . should run until every man, woman and child (past adolescence) has seen it. Then it should be brought back and shown periodically to maturing generations in this still all too warlike world."

MORE ON NILES SCOUT

Golden Gate. A stiff breeze sent spray over the stern, and meeting the clear sunlight of a perfect morning it broke into a multitude of rainbow hues.

The boat was well stocked with eatables and soft drinks, and like most boys the scouts were hungry a half hour after they had started on their trip. Mr. Ford's chauffeur, Fred, acted as chef, and with liberal hand appeased the early morning appetite of not only the boys, but the men and women of the party who found the atmosphere of the sea and the environment of youth getting into their blood, and playing happy pranks with mature years.

Making the circle at the Golden Gate the boat bounced about like a tub, and several lads began to suffer from sea sickness. One youth was laid out, and for a time it looked like the joy of the trip had gone glimmering for him. But in half an hour, with Point Reyes several miles back, and the bay as smooth as glass, the lad was himself again, making as much noise as any healthy youngster has a license to make.

There were thirty-nine boys in the party and thirteen adults. Before the party boarded the Arequipa it seemed a problem where the youngsters were to find seating or lounging room. Contrary to this belief, no one was crowded, and every one was at perfect ease. Good and thoughtful host that he is, Ford told his guests to take possession of the boat, and no obligations of any kind were expected. One did not think it necessary to entertain someone else—just lie about and dream of pirate galleons, and in imagination have that period of history transplanted to the present with each on board a character of romance.

The cruise went as far east as Carquinez bridge, and on the far side of this imposing structure, the craft turned again west and plowed to Vallejo. This post was reached at noon. The passengers were scheduled to eat here, and with some impatience the party waited the arrival at the Mare Island Yard pier, where by special permission the yacht was allowed to make its moorings, tied fast to a naval craft at the dock. Met at the wharf by a naval officer, the Ford party was taken over the United States naval establishment. Dry docks were inspected, for the first time by many in the party. It was an instructive and interesting sight to see a giant war craft propped up on stilts, high and dry, where the day before a crew of men were scraping the barnacles from her side and giving her a new coat of paint and needed repairs.

Leaving this part of the giant reserve behind, the courteous escort took the party over the grounds, showing the boys the little church where the naval men worship their God. Unique is this little chapel insofar that it is one of the two churches "owned" by the navy department in the entire United States. The swimming pool was a spacious one, and went to prove that Uncle Sam was anxious to make his boys contented while on duty. A theater is also operated for the amusement of the men stationed on Mare Island.

The next building to be inspected, to the joy of a hungry throng, was the mess hall. Again by special permission, the party was allowed to appease ravenous appetites in a marine's cafe. It was a great meal, the boys say, and if that was a fair sample of navy menu the Boy Scouts of Niles, before long, will be joining Uncle Sam's navy.

After lunch, the party, led by Captain Putman, viewed several submarines, at Mare Island for repairs. One of these, the captain said, was one of the largest in the world—in fact, but one other surpassed it in size. In an intelligable way the operation of undersea craft was explained, and cleared up in the minds of many just how the vessel sank and rose at will.

Late in the afternoon, the Ford yacht left Vallejo on its way to its home dock. The trip back was made with record speed, and the final lap gave everyone, boy and grown-up, a real thrill. The bay was rough, and Ford was "stepping on it." The natural result was a rapid clearing of the deck of Boy Scouts and everyone else seeking shelter. Some of the lads were half-convinced the boat was sinking, but an experienced skipper was at the wheel, and the game little craft, that took money in the late yacht race, tied up at her pier at five bells.

Before debarkation, everyone in the party thanked Mr. Ford and his wife for an outing, the nature of which few in the party had ever taken before — so full of real enjoyment that words were quite inadequatee to express to the hosts suitable appreciation.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Ford the following enjoyed the cruise on San Francisco Bay:

Boy Scouts

Jack Townsend, Arnold Abrott, George Frontz, John Habenicht, Clarence Rose, Morgan Cesari, Vernon Ellsworth, Peter Bunting, Harry Cesari, George Meideiros, John McGowan, Lawrence Pine, Byron Frontz, Frank Ferry, Arthur Ferreira, Julius Pine, Donald Oliver, James Geib, Everett Mendenhall, Lawrence Bunting, Joe Cardenas, Ernest Perry, John Cattaneo, Harry Cesari, Melvin Farmer, Melvin Santos, Howard Rose, Gordon Justus, and Frank Rose.

Scout L. C. Krelle, of Sausalito, was the guest of Scoutmaster Marshall Green.

Other Guests

The adults going on the boat ride were J. E. Townsend, A. F. Johnson, A. M. Alves, Jack Geib, Dr. R. H. Bennett, Elmer G. Brinkmeyer, L. E. Smith, Mrs. James Whipple, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Parks.

Pleasanton-Made Boat Is Given Severe Test By Manuel DePonte

Demand for Craft on Increase Since Try-out Runs

"Speakeasy," the first craft constructed by the Pleasanton Boat factory, was officially christened and launched at the Livermore Yacht Club on the San Joaquin River Sunday afternoon.

The ceremonies were attended by several of the executives of the factory and numerous invited guests. The day was perfect for such an auspicious occasion. The sun overhead was shining as it only can shine in the San Joaquin valley. It caused the arms and faces of those present to be blistered, at least the sun was blamed.

As the craft slid down the greased (with mud) slides and took the water, Jack Bullene tried to crack a bottle, which had contained near beer, over the prow. The bottle failed to break and after futilely attempting to break said bottle, it was thrown away and some of the San Joaquin River water sprinkled over the boat.

There were numerous yachtsmen around as the launching took place. Those persons had plenty of wisecracks to make about what would happen when "that Pleasanton-made boat left dry land." But when "Speakeasy" took the water and floated perfectly, with not so much as the thickness of a hair out of balance, those Livermore Doubting Thomases looked crestfallen and had to admit that things are done in Pleasanton, and DONE RIGHT!

Other than a few minor mishaps such as stalling the motor in mid-channel and getting partially on one or two sandbars, the launching and trial runs were declared a huge success.

Since the launching and trial runs, stock in the company has skyrocketed and orders are pouring into the company offices. It was announced by Andrew L. otherwise known as ANDY, Jorgensen, president of the boat factory, that orders had been received from Peter Christesen and Sam Elliott for boats bearing the Pleasanton Boat Factory trademark.

It is said that Elliott wants a speed boat and that Christesen wants a sea-going craft which will make a trip to Denmark. Both gentlemen will get just what they want, ANDY declared, adding in a soto voice, if they have the money to pay for it.

The motor which propelled the "Speakeasy" on its trial runs is the property of Manuel DePonte. He acted as engineer and pilot on the tryout drives. Clarence DePonte was the official photographer of the launching and procured some excellent views.

Others who were along on the launching trip were Sam Elliott on whose truck the boat was hauled to the river, Peter Christesen, one of the original members of the crew, and Lloyd H. Rhodes, who was taken along for ballast.

Later in the afternoon Frank T imingham and his wife and Mrs. Elliott went for a boat ride. Still later, Matt Jorgensen, brother of the president, arrived on the scene accompanied by Miss Anna Kofoed, and Mr. and Mrs. O. Keefe.

The Pleasanton Boat Factory officials were indebted to Antone Peterson for the courtesy of using the Livermore Yacht Club docks for the launching. The boat was returned to Pleasanton late Sunday evening where is was again placed in drydock at the boat factory. It will be given another coat of paint before being placed in the river again for official inspection and pleasure cruises.

THE GREATEST YEAR FOR ICE

The day of extravagance is past. People have recovered from the recent fever of easy spending . . . they now demand VALUE for their dollars spent.

More and more the trend is toward ice refrigeration. A few minutes figuring will show that even the first cost of a chemical-mechanical refrigerator would represent the equivalent of your ice bills until 1942. And ice is not only cheaper, but is the only real refrigeration.*

New, scientifically designed ice refrigerators, in white and pastel colorings, sell as low as $25 to $65. They are beautiful in appearance, have larger food storage room and enable you to have plenty of ice for all occasions. Sold by your iceman on easy terms with a liberal trade-in allowance on your old ice box.

People who demand the best in refrigeration and buy with a shrewd knowledge of value per dollar spent will phone their iceman today for full particulars regarding ice refrigeration.

*Remember this, only ICE keeps foods fresh as well as cold, conserves their natural flavors and juices, and keeps food pure by a natural circulation of clean washed air that carries away impurities and odors.

San Leandro Has Youngest Poultry Raiser

Little Mary Clarke, aged 8 years, is a blue eyed miss with sun bleached hair. However, the prospects are that she will grow up to be an industrious brunette, rather than a gold digging blonde.

She's starting in that direction now. Mary, who lives on a chicken ranch just east of San Leandro, has the distinction of being the youngest poultry-raiser in Alameda county, one of the largest poultry-raising centers on the Pacific Coast, according to Supervisor Ralph V. Richmond, of this district.

"About a year ago," Supervisor Richmond said today, "Mary's mother gave her a double setting of white leghorn eggs and her father hatched them out for her in his incubator. Now the leghorns have grown up and are laying.

"She gathers the eggs daily, counts them and turns them over to her father, who markets them for her. The money he obtains is put into the bank in Mary's name. It is estimated that by the time she graduates from high school and enters the University of California at Berkeley that she will have sufficient funds to complete her education.

"Mary wasn't satisfied with the flock of chickens that she had. This spring she saved enough eggs from the market output of her hens for two settings and had her father put them in the incubator. They've all hatched now so Mary has visions of a doubled income.

"But there is one fly in the ointment. When the chicks made their appearance it was discovered that one of them wasn't a white leghorn at all. He was nearly jet black. So Mary made a deal with her father to trade the new arrival to him for a white chick.

"'No, I'm not going to marry a farmer,' she said the other day. 'I intend to be a school teacher.'"

STORY COMPOSED ABOUT MOKELUMNE RIVER PROGRESS

Pacific Gas and Electric Gives Free Copy To Readers

Pacific Gas and Electric Company has recently published an interesting illustrated narrative of the historical incidents surrounding the development of the Mokelumne River for water and power.

This booklet, which is entitled "The Story of the Mokelumne River" was written by E. M. Seel of the Company's Publicity Department. Setting of the story is centered around the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's latest hydro-electric project on the Mokelumne River but the writer goes back to the early mining days and describes the old ditching and flume companies of the days of Bret Harte in the Mother Lode country. He also traces the name of the river back to the Indian tribes that once inhabited that section of the Sierras, and includes some of their tribal customs.

A copy of this booklet will be sent gratis to the readers of the Township Register who send in their names and adresses, mentioning this paper, to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, Room 410, 245 Market Street, San Francisco.

Irvington School Wins Cup At Orchestra Contest Monday

Mass Concert Is Given By Ensemble of All Orchestras

At the second annual grammar school orchestra contest held in the auditorium of the Washington Union High School, Monday evening, the Irvington Grammar School orchestra took first place in the A Division and the musicians of the Alviso Grammar School won first place in the B Division.

Judges of the contest were Anthony Clark, Centerville Band leader; Joe E. Hollingshead, Hayward music instructor, and J. E. Kimber, W. U. H. S. music instructor. Points were awarded on a basis of 300, and the final decision of the three judges were: Class A, Irvington 254, Newark 251, Alvarado 227, and Niles 224; Class B, Alviso 225, and Warm Springs 199.

Competition was strong this year. Irvington came out from behind as placed last year and showed her colors this year. Newark won the silver loving cup last year and it was awarded to Irvington at the contest. Alviso, who won the Class B cup last year, retained it again this year. A remarkable improvement in all of the orchestras was noticed by those attending the program. More difficult numbers were played than ever attempted before.

This year's contest was in charge of J. P. McClellan, township grammar school music teacher. The selections played were "Poet and Peasant Overture" for the four largest orchestras, and "Sobre Las Olas" for Class B. An ensemble of all the orchestras made a grand spectacle, in fact, the largest orchestra ever heard in this community. It played "Speed Our Republic," "The Andante Movement," "The Creation Excerpt," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "Star Spangled Banner."

In regard to the contest J. E. Kimber said, "An orchestra can come from behind by determination and hard work. Losing orchestras under no circumstances should be discouraged. By the loyal cooperation of all local schools in these annual contests, the future champions will be made for the Washington Township School Band."
